

M'CORMICK WANTS SENIORITY RULE IN SENATE ABOLISHED

Illinoisan, in Letter to Lodge, Also Urges That Steering Committee Be Made Representative.

NUMBER OF VACANCIES AT NEXT CONGRESS

Chairmen of at Least Three Important Committees to Be Chosen — Fight May Develop.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Abolition of the Senate's seniority rule, by which the chairmanship of a committee goes to the member with the longest continuous service thereon, is suggested by Senator McCormick, Illinois, chairman of the Republican Senatorial Committee, in a letter to Senator Lodge, the Republican leader, just made public.

The letter also urged that the steering committee, of which McCormick is a member, be made representative of all sections and thought on the Republican side and disclosed that Senator McCormick had discussed the question with Senator Curtis of Kansas, assistant Republican leader, and others.

Some Chairmen "Unfit." Stating that the seniority rule "served very well in the old days" and had resulted generally in appointment of good chairmen, McCormick wrote Lodge that "the Republican conference and the Republican Steering Committee have it to the country to put aside the rule, just as the conference owes it to the country to make provision for the selection of a truly representative steering committee which shall meet regularly and as occasion requires with the corresponding committee of the House."

Senator McCormick declared that while in a majority of instances "the men who have become chairmen through seniority have been good chairmen, there have been others who were unfitted for their posts, by reason of extreme old age, or of failing health, or because of grave differences of opinion with the majority of their Republican associates."

Notice already has come from Senators in the "irregular" Republican group that they intend to fight the seniority rule and demand what they consider adequate committee representation. Their fight is expected to center about two or three important chairmanships. The Democrats have not shown any inclination so far to abandon the seniority rule in the filling of minority committee places.

Important Chairmanships. Chairmen of at least three important Senate committees, Finance, Naval and Postoffice, are to be chosen in the next Congress. Chairman McCumber, Finance; Townsend of the Postoffice; and Senator Poinsett, in line for the chairmanship of the Naval Committee, will be out after March 4; Senator Rount, Utah, is in line for the Finance Committee chairmanship, and Senator Sterling, South Dakota, for Postoffice; Senator Lodge is second man now on Naval; but it is known that he desires to continue at the head of Foreign Relations. With Senator Poinsett eliminated, Senator Hale, Maine, under the seniority rule, would be in line for the naval chairmanship.

On the Finance Committee, besides the chairmanship, there will be one Democratic and three Republican vacancies in the new Congress. Senators Calder, New York, Finance; Land, West Virginia, and Frelinghuysen of New Jersey were defeated and Senator Williams, Democrat, Mississippi, retired. It is predicted by some Republicans that Senators Wadsworth and Edge will succeed Senators Calder and Frelinghuysen. Other Vacancies. Another important committee in which there will be an unusual number of changes is Interstate Commerce, which will have to deal with efforts to abolish the Railway Labor Board and to amend the transportation act and the Adamson eight-hour law.

Six members must be replaced. Four Republican Senators Townsend, Kellogg, Poinsett and Frelinghuysen, were defeated, with one Democrat, Senator Pomeroy, Ohio, while another Democratic member, Senator Myers, Montana, was not a candidate for re-election.

On the Foreign Relations Committee, three Republican members, McCumber, New and Kellogg, and three Democrats, Pomeroy, Hitchcock and Williams, retire. The foreign relations post is regarded as particularly desirable and two vacancies always are the subject of sharp competition.

THE callers agreed that the former President looked in better health and was in stronger voice than at any time since his illness. are concerned, a Wilson organization. Only the split between the Palmer and McKee forces at San Francisco enabled the anti-Wilson elements from New York and Illinois and New Jersey to select another candidate, who, however, quickly recognized the importance of the Wilson leadership and faithfully preached the Wilson doctrine throughout the campaign. But the Wilson strength is dominant in the party today and a coalition of the Wilson groups can easily name the next candidate.

Plans for 1924. Mr. Wilson in his letter to Senator Caraway has given first expression to his desire for leadership. He said: "We must now clear our minds and purify our hearts to offer to the country in 1924 exactly the service it needs and the candidate who can best render that service."

Mr. Wilson's health alone has prevented his assuming the reins of leadership before this. His physical and family thought it would be too much of a strain. But the tonic of victory which his intimates have been praying for has come at last. The tide is turning, they feel, and with it will come better days for the ex-President, who hopes to see some day a complete triumph of the principles which he believes America fought for in 1917 and 1918. There was a touch of wartime enthusiasm as the ex-President entered his big touring car and waved his hat to the crowd. They formed a lane on either side and cheered as the motor passed triumphantly along Bigger crowds, to be sure, there were on Champs Elysees nearly four years ago, greater demonstrations given on the Strand and in the congested streets of Rome but, for inspiration to a man who had suffered the reverse in health that Woodrow Wilson has, nothing could have been more stimulating. The Armistice day demonstration, the apparent plans of a party that has been leaderless for two years and sees the old leader again to enter the fray.

VALUATION TO JUSTIFY $2 GAS SOUGHT BY LACLEDE

Engineer Says Present Plant at $58,000,000 Is Better Than Could Be Built for $60,000,000.

PRESENT RATE $1.05 PER 1000 CUBIC FEET

Audit of Books of Company Recently Showed High Earnings on Valuation of $30,000,000.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 13.—Figures for a "fair" valuation of its property, which would require a gas rate of $2 a thousand cubic feet, for domestic customers, were submitted to the Public Service Commission today by the Laclede Gas Light Co. of St. Louis in defense of its present rates, which are $1.05 to household users.

A showing by the Post-Dispatch last August that the $1.05 rate was producing a return to the Laclede in excess of what the commission had fixed to be a fair one on a tentative valuation of $30,000,000 caused the commission to summon the Laclede to show cause why its rates should not be reduced.

What Last Audit Showed. The commission also caused its auditors to examine the company's books, which disclosed that the company's gas rates had produced for the first seven months of 1922 an earning of 10.36 per cent available for depreciation and return to the stockholders.

James E. Allison of St. Louis, a consulting engineer, employed by the gas company, to prepare figures on its valuation, testified at the opening of the hearing today to values ranging from $42,000,000 as the original cost of the Laclede plant to $66,000,000 as a cost of having reproduced it on last August 1st.

These figures caused Commissioner Bean to remark that a rate of $2 a thousand feet would be necessary to produce a fair return to the company on the basis of those figures.

Allison ventured the opinion that such a charge would be possible "after the public got used to it."

Argument As to Rate. Commissioner Simpson inquired if such a charge would be possible in view of "the situation as it exists in St. Louis." Allison agreed that such a charge likely would not be politic, but insisted that the company fairly was entitled to it.

Valuation by Engineer. Allison asserted that an investor could more profitably buy the present Laclede plant at $58,000,000 than construct a new one at $60,000,000. The Laclede is combating a reduction in rates on the ground that the commission's valuation of $30,000,000 for its property, adopted tentatively for rate making, is too low, and that the rates are producing more than an adequate return on that valuation, they should be continued, because, if the commission should make a detailed inventory valuation, it would find the plant worth in excess of $30,000,000. It submitted an exhibit to show that on Allison's valuation of original cost the company since 1919 has earned an average of only 4.12 per cent a year.

U. S. JUDGESHIP DISCUSSED

Special to the Post-Dispatch. CAUTHERSVILLE, Mo., Nov. 13.—Mack Stubbfield, Constable of Little Prairie Township, was shot and instantly killed last night by Ben Wade when Stubbfield and Jesse Johnson, Deputy Sheriff, and Special Officer H. D. Gaines entered the cellar of the Wade store to raid a dice game. Wade and about 25 negroes were in the cellar. When the officers called to them to throw up their hands, Wade shot Stubbfield with a revolver, the bullet entering the brain over his eye.

Johnson and Gaines shot Wade several times. One shot in the abdomen may prove fatal.

JAPANESE CAN'T BECOME CITIZENS BY NATURALIZATION

U. S. Supreme Court Rules That Federal Statute Forbidding Such Naturalizations Is Still in Effect.

TWO SEPARATE CASES BEFORE THE COURT

One an Appeal Brought by Japanese From Hawaii, the Other From State of Washington.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The Supreme Court of the United States, in two cases today, ruled against the claim of Japanese to naturalization, holding that the statute forbidding such naturalization was still in force.

In its finding the Court disposed of two cases, one brought from Hawaii by Tako Ozawa, against the United States and the other brought by Takaji Yamashita and Charles Rio Koko against the Secretary of State at Washington.

In the latter case both Japanese had been naturalized by a court of the State of Washington, but were refused incorporation as a real estate firm on the ground that their naturalization had been illegal. The lower Federal courts denied naturalization in both cases, but the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, in considering the Ozawa case, suspended its decision and asked the Supreme Court for instruction as to whether Japanese were eligible for citizenship under the naturalization laws.

Questions Before Court. The question largely turned upon whether Section 2169 of the revised statutes, restricting naturalization to "free white persons" and those of African descent, was still in force.

The court stated that the questions before it were: "1. Is the naturalization act of June 29, 1906, limited by the provisions of section 2169 of the revised statutes of the United States? 2. If so limited, is the appellant eligible for naturalization under that section?"

The court answered the first of these questions in the affirmative, and then in discussing the phrase "free white persons" as it appears in the statute, said:

"Undoubtedly the word 'free' was originally used in recognition of the fact that slavery then existed and that some white persons occupied that status. The word, however, has long since ceased to have any practical significance and may now be eliminated to it."

Color Requirement Discussed. "Manifestly the test afforded by the mere color of the skin of each individual is impracticable, as that differs greatly among persons of the same race, even among Anglo-Saxons, ranging from imperceptible gradations from the fair blond to the swarthy brunette, the latter being darker than many of the lighter-hued persons of the brown or yellow races. Hence, to adopt the color test alone would result in a confused overlapping of races and a gradual merging of one into the other, without any practical line of separation."

The Federal and State courts, in an almost unbroken line, have held that the words 'white person' were meant to indicate only a person of what is popularly known as the Caucasian race. With the conclusion reached in these several decisions, we see no reason to differ. Moreover, that conclusion has become so well established by judicial and executive concurrence and legislative acquiescence that we should not at this late day feel at liberty to disturb it in the absence of reason far more cogent than any that have been suggested.

Conclusion as to "White Person." "The effect of the conclusion that the words 'white person' means a Caucasian is not to establish a sharp line of demarcation between those who are entitled and those who are not entitled to naturalization, but rather a zone of more or less debatable ground outside of which, upon the one hand, are those clearly eligible, and upon the other, are those clearly ineligible."

He was born in Kentucky in 1849; Served for 20 Years on Circuit Bench in Missouri.

WEST PLAINS, Mo., Nov. 13.—Former Circuit Judge William N. Evans died at his home here Saturday night, following an illness of more than a year. He was 73 years old, and for many years had been prominently identified with Democratic politics in Missouri. At one time he was chairman of the Democratic State Committee.

Evans, although he supported the candidacy of Brockbridge Long in the primary of last Aug. 1, for the nomination for the United States Senate, announced after Long's defeat that he would support Senator Reed and advised that all Democrats do likewise.

He was born in Owsley County, Ky., and was admitted to the bar in 1875. He was elected Superintendent of Schools in Webster County in 1877, and in the following year moved to Oregon County where he served as Prosecuting Attorney for two terms. In 1885 he moved to West Plains and in 1888 he was one of the Grover Cleveland electors. He was appointed Judge in the Twelfth Judicial Circuit by Gov. Francis Pickens in 1891, was elected to the bench the following year and was re-elected in 1898. He was re-elected for a third term in 1904 and for a fourth term in 1910, serving as Judge for 20 years.

WOMEN PLAN EQUAL RIGHTS AMENDMENT TO CONSTITUTION

National Party Will Campaign for Amendment to Eliminate All Distinctions in Sex Rights.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Drafting of a proposed amendment to the Constitution to eliminate all distinction between the rights of the sexes was decided on yesterday at the closing session of the two-day conference of officers of the National Women's party.

It was voted to press the work of preparing the amendment for introduction in Congress and begin campaigning for passage of equal rights bills in 42 states whose Legislatures meet this winter.

A budget of $150,000 for the year's work was adopted and $85,000 of this was pledged yesterday.

BELLAMY STORER, FORMER DIPLOMAT, DIES

Cincinnati Lawyer, Who Figured in Controversy With Roosevelt, Succumbs in Paris.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—Bellamy Storer, long prominent as an American diplomatist, died last night in a hotel here, where he and Mrs. Storer were staying.

Bellamy Storer was a noted member of former President Theodore Roosevelt's Ananias Club. Storer, who had been a friend of Roosevelt in the latter's early days in politics, was appointed by Roosevelt as Ambassador at Vienna.

In 1906 came the sensational break in their relations. It was stated at the time that Storer had neglected his duties and had failed to answer official letters from Washington.

The real reason for his retirement, however, was believed to be Mrs. Storer's zeal in her effort to obtain a Cardinal's hat for Archbishop Ireland of Minnesota.

Mrs. Storer was a Cincinnati woman and a member of the Longworth family. She was a Roman Catholic convert. Storer, who had been a politician of note in Ohio, followed her example. The tempest in diplomatic circles raised by Storer's dismissal followed a long record of political service.

Storer, who was American Ambassador to Austria-Hungary in 1902-06, previously had been Minister to Belgium, 1897-99, and Spain, 1899-1902. He was a member of the Fifty-second and Fifty-third Congresses, 1891-95.

He was born in Cincinnati in 1847 and was graduated from Harvard in 1867. He entered the law two years later and was appointed an Assistant United States District Attorney.

Statements by Roosevelt and Storer in the controversy over Storer's dismissal raised the issue of veracity between them. Storer declared that Roosevelt had sanctioned his visit to the Pope on Archbishop Ireland's behalf and Roosevelt replied flatly that he had not done any such thing.

It was Storer's wife, who was Mary Longworth of Cincinnati, about whom "revolved the strife incidental to Storer's dismissal. She was the 'My Dear Maria' in series of letters written by the late President and published by Mrs. Storer in defense of her contention that her husband's removal had been an injustice.

She was charged by the president with responsibility for complications which "caused her husband's removal. Roosevelt accused Mrs. Storer with having delved too deeply in affairs of state and with seriously involving the United States with the Vatican and with the Governments of France, Spain and Austria-Hungary.

Mrs. Storer, aunt of Nicholas Longworth, Roosevelt's son-in-law, was grandmother to Kermit Roosevelt.

MAYOR STUDYING PLANS FOR NEGROES TO USE GOLF LINKS

Kiel, With Director of Public Welfare Confers, Is Making Tour of Cities.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Nov. 13.—Mayor Kiel and Director of Public Welfare Cunliffe of St. Louis departed today for New York and Boston after a brief visit here.

The Mayor told inquirers he and Cunliffe were studying the methods of Eastern cities in dealing with the use by negroes of public recreation grounds, such as golf links and tennis courts, with a view to finding a solution of a problem which had proved troublesome in St. Louis. He was informed that in Washington one day a week is set apart for negroes on the municipal links.

MARY M'SWINEY REFUSES FOOD

Sister of Late Terence MacSwiney Passes Ninth Day Without Eating.

By the Associated Press. DUBLIN, Nov. 13.—Mary Swiney is the only prisoner in Mount Joy on a hunger strike. Miss O'Neil, who was arrested with MacSwiney and who broke her hunger strike Saturday, was released from the prison yesterday.

At a public meeting of protest against the arrest of the women held in O'Connell street, it was declared Mrs. MacSwiney was determined to continue her strike regardless of the consequences. Yesterday was the ninth day that she has refused food.

The women's republican organization sent a resolution expressing admiration and offers to support Mrs. MacSwiney and the other women prisoners. Miss MacSwiney is a sister of the late Terence MacSwiney, who died as a result of abstention from food while under arrest.

Traynor Trial Continued One Day. The trial of James Traynor, Clement Forrestal and Samuel Weiss at St. Louis, on a charge of having stolen a $17,400 payroll of the National Lead Co., at Granite City, Mo., June, 1921, was to have started today in Circuit Court at Edwardsville, but Traynor was granted a continuance of one day so that he could have certain witnesses present. Forrestal and Weiss were granted a severance and will be tried separately later.

GRAND JURY TO GET HALL MURDER CASE NEXT THURSDAY

Prosecutor, After Making Announcement, Refuses to Name Witnesses to Be Called.

WOMAN CONTRADICTS MRS. GIBSON'S STORY

Mrs. Anna Hanlon Declared She Saw Rector and Mills Carried From House Bound.

By the Associated Press. SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 13.—Evidence in the Hall-Mills murder case will be presented to the grand jury next Thursday, it was announced today by Deputy Attorney-General Mott. He refused to name the witnesses to be called.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The story told by Mrs. Jane Gibson, to the effect that she was an eyewitness to the double murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills under the crabapple tree on the outskirts of New Brunswick, N. J., the night of Sept. 14, has been contradicted by a neighbor, Mrs. Nellie Lolok Russell, a negress.

Mrs. Gibson and Mrs. Russell had an altercation yesterday over a picture in an interview today, but declared she was not the aggressor, adding that she had boreed no ill will toward Mrs. Gibson.

Mrs. Gibson, in her accusation, which the prosecution has placed chief reliance, asserted she saw the shooting and reached the crabapple tree just before the shot were fired. She fixed the time the crime at 10:20 o'clock.

Mrs. Russell, in signed affidavit, insists Mrs. Gibson's adventure that evening must be imaginary, because she saw Mrs. Gibson spend the night of Sept. 14 at the home of a friend, Mrs. Russell, one hour from 10 to 11 o'clock that Thursday in conversation on the Gibson farm and on the stoop, her shanty, about 500 yards from Mrs. Gibson's dilapidated pig farm.

Two identical affidavits were made by Mrs. Russell. One is in the possession of Timothy Newell Pfeiffer, attorney for Mrs. Frances Steffe Hall, widow of the slain minister. The other has been turned over to Pfeiffer to special Deputy Attorney General Wilbur A. Mott, in charge of the prosecution. Mott received a copy of the affidavit yesterday at a conference with Pfeiffer and James A. Mason, chief investigator of the case.

Mott refused to say whether or not he considered Mrs. Russell's affidavit seriously attacked the credibility of Mrs. Gibson. He then was questioned by Mrs. Gibson and confirmed that her story stood up under the closest scrutiny.

"I have been quoted in the newspapers for a lot of things I never said," was his answer.

Explanation of Lateness.
Mrs. Russell's denial of Mrs. Gibson's story came not as a result of any official investigation but through her own volition. She made it so she told Pfeiffer, because she did not believe the prosecution intended to take Mrs. Gibson's story seriously. As soon as it was known that the construction of a three-story house by Mrs. Hanlon, that real estate men say must have cost from $10,000 to $15,000. She said:

"I did tell about four people carrying away Mr. Hall and the woman I supposed to be Mrs. Hall, up to the time I saw her picture in the paper. From the house on the Phillips road near New Brunswick the night of Sept. 14, but I didn't put it in writing and I didn't sign anything."
Mrs. Hanlon admitted she could not read nor write English. But she is in no way lacking in intelligence and speaks German fluently.
"How do you account for the delay of two months in telling what you know of the seizure of Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills?" she was asked.
"I didn't want to get mixed up in a murder," she replied. "Until I was convinced that the real Mrs.

Former Kaiser's Bride Leaving Her Home in Silesia for the Wedding

PRINCESS HERMINE, NOW "QUEEN OF PRUSSIA."
The Princess posed for this photograph in front of her castle in Zaabur just as she was getting ready to enter the automobile that was to take her to the train for her journey to Doorn. This was two days before the wedding.

Hall was in danger of being placed in the hands of the mob. She was kept to my husband—for I did not want the publicity and inconvenience of being drawn into the case. But when I thought of that poor woman, whom I knew to be innocent, being in danger, I determined to tell what I know. And what I have told is the absolute truth. But I didn't write anything or sign anything,"
she repeated.

"Were you paid anything for your statement?" she was asked.
She registered indignation at once.
"No. What do you take me for?"
she replied. "I was offered $600, that was laid right on the table, for a signed statement, but I am an honest woman and a Christian, and I handed the money right back to the man who offered it."

She asserted with earnestness the murders were not committed either in the house or on the grounds, for no pistol shots were fired within her hearing, she said. Nor did she hear any outcry after the minister and Mrs. Mills, carefully bound, with ropes around their necks, were carried from the house in which she was hiding and placed in a large automobile that stood by the crabapple tree.

"Mrs. Mills, whom I had always called 'Mrs. Hall,' started crying as soon as she was grabbed by the men after they had bound Mr. Hall," said Mrs. Hanlon. "But she did not scream. I had heard the young American man tell Mr. Hall that it might be all over with him that night before they carried him to the car, and I expected to hear of some tragedy the next day. When the pictures of the murdered man and woman were printed in the papers I recognized them at once as the 'Mrs.
Hall' who had employed me, and the

40-YEAR TERM FOR YOUTH WHO HELPED ROB INN IN COUNTY

Robert Kleessen Sentenced on Plea of Guilty—Constable Was Shot, Robber Slain in Holdup.

Robert Kleessen, 19 years old, who with five others, escaped Oct. 15 from the county jail at Clayton, was sentenced today following his plea of guilty in Circuit Judge Wurdeman's Court of first-degree robbery in connection with the holdup of Rose Inn, on the North and South road,
Oct. 8.

In that holdup Joseph Resnick,
one of the robbers, was shot and killed, and Deputy Constable George Roth was wounded. The robbers got $7.

Kleessen also pleaded guilty of robbery and grand larceny in connection with the jail break, but sentence in that case was deferred. It was alleged that he and the other escaping prisoners robbed Jailer Group of his watch, $102 and automobile.

Claire Rush, 19, also under indicment in connection with the jail escape and theft of the jailer's property, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for Dec. 19.

Charles Silver, who was indicted with Kleessen in connection with the Rose Inn holdup, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for Dec. 13.

Kleessen and Silver pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault to kill,
growing out of the Rose Inn holdup,
and their trial on that charge was set for Dec. 4. Kleessen and Rush pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault to kill in connection with an assault upon Jailer Group at the time of the escape, and that trial was set for Dec. 11.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 13.—
Funeral services for the late Porter Gilvin, for many years deputy warden of the State penitentiary here, who died Saturday, were held from the prison mansion this afternoon. The mansion occupied by Gilvin and his family while Gilvin was warden under the Gardner administration, was tendered for the occasion by Arch T. Hollenbeck, director of penal institutions who now occupies it. A number of convicts were allowed to attend the ceremony without guard, on their honor, and the penitentiary band played the procession on its way to the cemetery. All activity at the prison ceased between 1 and 2 p. m.

ITALIAN BANKER'S CREDITORS LAUGH OVER THEIR LOSSES

About 100 Who Trusted
Funds to Ettore Pace, Now Departed, Say They Will Not Prosecute Him.

About 100 creditors of Ettore Pace, a bankrupt banker for several hundred Italian workmen, who,
following his unexpected departure from the city a week ago, wrote a letter from Chicago confessing that he had gambled "many thousand dollars" of his clients' money in stock speculation, yesterday appointed Edoardo Fiori, secretary to the Italian consul, to represent them as trustee. The claims of those who attended the meeting aggregated approximately $1,000.

When asked by a Post-Dispatch
reporter if they intended to prosecute Pace, the customers, all of whom appeared to take their losses
good-naturedly, replied negatively, expressing the opinion that such a course would avail them nothing,
as their money was gone.

In Good Humor Despite Losses.
The meeting was held in the Italian Consular office, 251 North Serpentine street, just around the corner from the small storehouse where Pace formerly held forth as banker.

To the amazement of the Consul's secretary, the customers, all of whom are poor persons, accepted their predicament in good humor, instead of expressing grief as he had anticipated.

A middle-aged woman, poorly clad
and with an old shawl over her head, was the center of a group of interested Italians as she addressed Fiori in Italian. Her gestures indicated that she was agitated, and an onlooker wondered why the secretary smiled at her remarks. When she concluded her remarks the crowd laughed and she joined in.

"She made a joke," Fiori explained to a Post-Dispatch reporter.
"and it was a good one. She says she gave Pace $200 to send to Italy and also gave him 15 cents to register the letter. She says the poor man needed the 15 cents, maybe, so he could buy a cigar for himself on the train."

Another Joke Causes Laughter.
A few minutes later the crowd was laughing at the comment of a gray-haired man, wearing overalls and jumper.
"I asked him if he, too, was fool enough to give his money to Pace," Fiori later said, "and he said Pace was the biggest fool of all, because he didn't take the money with him
instead of gambling it away."

And that's the way it went for more than two hours. The customers, without exception, seemed to complain of nothing, and the secretary said that he had departed.

"They are all poor people. None of them can afford to stand the loss, and yet they laugh about it. They joked with each other as though they were discussing something which did not concern them.

Losses $2150. But Laughs.
"One man, a coal miner, gave Pace $2150. He said he had been saving it for years, and wanted it sent to a bank in Italy because he was going back there to live in case. Yet he

PORTO RICO LAW AND RELY ISSUE UNDER DISCUSSION

War Secretary Weeks and Insular Bureau Chief Among Those Meeting President.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Possible changes in the organic law of Porto Rico and the situation arising from the Rely controversy was discussed today at a White House conference.

The consultation is understood to have been the most comprehensive as to subjects considered, of any conference yet held. Those who met with the President were Secretary Weeks, Major-General Frank McIn-stry, Chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs; Felix Cordova Davila, Resident Commissioner of Porto Rico in Washington; Antonio B. Barcelon,
President of the Porto Rican Senate;

Martin Travieso, Mayor of San Juan; Alfonso Lastra Parriza, Speaker pro tempore of the Porto Rican House, and Francisco Giliivera, a member of the Porto Rican House. The discussion lasted more than an hour and was preceded by a separate conference between the President and Weeks.

Announcing that changes in the organic law underlying the Porto Rican governmental system formed the principal topic of discussion, Secretary Weeks said the situation with respect to E. Mont Rely as Governor was only incidental to the general subject. Asked if changes in the Porto Rican organic law might result from the conference, Weeks said they would not necessarily follow.

All the Porto Ricans who took part in the conference have been leaders in protests against the continuance of Rely as Governor.

was like the rest. He laughed and joked like nothing had happened, he said to some more coal miners that he guessed he would keep on working in the mines for lots of more years."

A young woman, employed in a factory, searched the bosom of her dress until she found a blue handkerchief tied in many knots. When, after much difficulty, she had opened it, she displayed a wrinkled and faded receipt for $20. Fiori looked at the date, showing the money was given to Pace to send to Italy two months ago.

"Who was this money sent to?"
inquired Fiori.

"My brother," she said. "He was to come to this country and help me support my mother."

"Well, if he has not acknowledged receipt of it by this time, the money never reached him," said Fiori.

Says She's a Fool, Too.
"I thought so," replied the woman
wearily, and, turning to the crowd,
her eyes twinkled and her lips expanded into a wide grin as she said:
"See, I'm a fool like the rest of you."

Those of Pace's customers who could understand and speak English were asked by a reporter if they would prosecute the young banker in the event he is arrested, and they said they would not.

SAYS HIS WIFE'S SHOES KEPT HIM 'STEPPING'

Husband Declares 50 to 60 Pairs
a Year Were Too Much
"Overhead" Under Foot.

It seemed to William H. Ketts that he was doing more than his share
to keep up the reputation of St.
Louis as a shoe market. His wife,
as he tells it, was the young woman who lived in a shoe, and she had so much footwear he didn't know what to do.

Her continual purchases of footwear kept him on his uppers, Ketts says. He testified in his divorce suit, heard a few days ago, that Mrs. Ketts bought from 50 to 60 pairs of shoes in the last year of their married life, and that he was "strapped" most of the time. He also said that Mrs. Ketts bought three to five suits, three to five dresses, and numerous hats, every season.

Ketts is a carpenter. He and his wife lived at 4659 Cottage avenue.
He said he could not tell how much
his wife had spent in her purchases, but that it was the greater part of what he made. He earned $60 to $75 a week, he said, and his wife acted as his banker, but whenever he sought to draw on his account,
he would learn that there were "no funds." All went for Mrs. Ketts' personal adornment, he said. He wished to buy a piano, but changed his tune when he saw a new batch of shoes and clothing come in. The separation occurred in May, 1928.

Mrs. Ketts filed a denial that she had been extravagant, or that her purchases of shoes had been so extensive as her husband said. She said she had difficulty in getting fitted, and bought several pairs of shoes, some of which she sold to relatives. She now lives at 4553 Lucky street. Judge Calhoun granted Ketts a divorce, and gave
Mrs. Ketts the custody of their son,
7 years old.

APPOINTMENT FOR POLICE HEAD
Hyde Would Give Post to St. Joseph Man, Whose Removal Was Sought.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 13.—
Gov. Hyde today announced that he has tendered the office of State Commissioner of Finance, vacant through the resignation two weeks ago of J. C. Hughes, to Walter B.
Fulkerson of St. Joseph, chairman of the St. Joseph Board of Police Commissioners. Hyde said that Fulkerson had promised a decision upon the offer within a few days.

It will be recalled that more than 13,000 persons in St. Joseph recently petitioned the Governor to remove Fulkerson and the other police commissioners, after the fifth of a series of killings by St. Joseph police. Gov. Hyde has never passed upon the demand for a change of police administration, but said today that he would do so in the near future. Fulkerson is the head of a bank in St. Joseph. His salary as commissioner of finance would be $5000 a year.

Two Months For Liquor Sale.
Joseph D. Coleman, when arraigned before Federal Judge Paris today, admitted the sale of a gallon of whisky
last March to a customer who later proved to be a prohibition enforcement agent. He was sentenced to serve two months in the St. Charles County Jail and fined $250.

YOUTH FOUND DEAD AT BOTTOM OF STAIRWAY

William Riddle Apparently Killed in Fall of Six Feet
at 2513 Mullanphy.

William Riddle, 20 years old, of 2550 St. Louis avenue, was found dead at 6:30 a. m. today at the bottom of an outside rear stairway leading to the basement under a flat at 2513 Mullanphy street.

A wound on the back of the head, cuts on knuckles and lacerations of the knee indicated, policemen said, that death was caused by falling
from the yard into the stairway, which is unprotected and is about six feet below the ground.

An autopsy disclosed that Riddle's death was caused by fracture of the skull at the base and hemorrhage of the brain due to the fracture.

Mrs. Ella Riddle told reporters that policemen indicated to her that they believed her son had been murdered.

Called for by Men in Auto.
Mrs. Riddle and other members of the family said that William left home about 2 p. m. yesterday. She said that an automobile containing several young men seeking her son drove up during the afternoon and again shortly after dark.

Leonard McCullum, who lives at the Mullanphy street address and had been a friend of William for years, was in the automobile which called for him yesterday, Mrs. Riddle said.

Last night was the first time William ever had remained away from home all night, Mrs. Riddle said, adding that she and her husband,
Jess, a carpenter, were awake at 2 a.
m., wondering what had happened to him.

She said that just before William left home yesterday she admonished him to remain away from "the corner," which she described as Twenty-fifth and Howard streets, where she said a number of young men of whom she does not approve habitually congregate.

Man Held as Witness.
Leonard McCullum is being held for the coroner's inquest. The body was discovered by McCullum's 15-year-old brother, Walter, when he started to a grocery for supplies for breakfast. The condition of the clothing indicated, police say, that the body had been lying in the rain
for some time and that death probably occurred before midnight. Mrs.
Bridget McCullum, mother of the McCullum boys, said she was not out of the house last night and heard no disturbance at the rear of the house.

BARUCH NOT TO BECOME THIRD-PARTY ORGANIZER

Coins New Phrase, "Conserving Party," but Says He Will Remain a Democrat.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Although he has coined a new phrase, the "Conserving Party," to denote the progressive and liberal elements who are anxious, in both the two major political parties, to build up the productive powers of the nation, Bernard M. Baruch, former chairman of the War Industries Board, and personal friend of President Wilson, has no intention of leaving the Democratic party in order to organize a new political party, as has been suggested.

The suggestion was made Saturday by Col. Robert H. Montgomery, a Republican, who was general controller of the United States Shipping Board under the Harding administration and who served with Baruch on the War Industries Board.

Col. Montgomery, an expert on tax and accounting matters, addressing more than 100 of Baruch's former associates on the war board, at a luncheon in the Waldorf-Astoria, said:

"Get the manufacturers and the farmers together. Put our chief, Baruch, at work organizing that alliance and you will have the strongest, safest party this country can produce."

When asked to comment on this proposal, Baruch indicated he did not regard it seriously.

"So far as a third party is concerned," he said, "I believe in the constructive liberalism of the Democratic party. I am a Democrat and I intend to remain so, although I would not remain in any party unless it was constructive and liberal. Those who have liberal and constructive ideas should get them incorporated into the old parties. In my opinion, the most important thing today is to get our biggest industry, which is the farming industry, on a sound basis."

Not Afraid of Radicals.
"I am not afraid of the so-called 'radicalism' of the great Northwest and of the great farming communities. For years I have been preaching an equalization of opportunity for the farmer, placing him on an equal footing with those with whom he has to deal, particularly in regard to facilities for the establishment of greater credit to the farmer, for the more orderly marketing of his crops, for greater facilities for the production of crops, for legalizing co-operating marketing, for the establishment of neutral graders—so that the farmer will not see his crop, sold at one grade, become in the hands of a new buyer a higher grade."

"Because the farmer is unorganized he has not been able to keep step with other interests who have been organized. The farmer works hard and gets too little of what he produces. The unorganized, consuming public is almost in the same position."

Views on Non-Partisan League.
Baruch was asked if he endorsed the Non-Partisan League wholly.

"No," he replied, "but, although one cannot agree with their entire program, even their severest critics will find, on investigation, that there are reasons for just complaints. After all, the farmer is not desirous of reform that is going to injure the community."

"What is 'radicalism'? The Norman barons were called radicals when they demanded the Magna Charta from King John, and the American colonists were called radicals when they sought to break away from England. The so-called radicalism of the farmer is no more than the demand for a square deal."

"I don't see why aid to the farmers should be made a subject of partisan politics, for, as a matter of fact, the so-called 'farm bloc' and the farmer movement, which elected a lot of men last Tuesday, shows it is non-partisan. Republicans and Democrats were elected alike in various States, according as they stood for the better treatment of the agricultural classes. Tuesday's election might have the result of hurrying legislation which is now in process toward fruition in the House and Senate. If from this can come a satisfied farming industry we will have established a 'conserving party' as against any forces which might attempt to destroy our present-day economic structure."

Steamer Reported Aground.
By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 12.—The steamer Oscar II, which sailed from New York Nov. 2 for Christiania and Copenhagen, went aground Sunday about 1200 feet north of the Oslo entrance to Christiania, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Christiania. Two steamers hurried to the assistance of the 95 passengers still aboard today. It is not believed the ship was seriously damaged or that it is in a leaky condition.

4 PERSONS BURNED TO DEATH IN MISSISSIPPI HOTEL FIRE

Man Injured When He Jumps From Window—Missourian Among Dead.

By the Associated Press.
ARMORY, Miss., Nov. 12.—Four persons were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the "T. P. A." Hotel here early today.
The dead are: C. F. Altheide, Evansville, Ind.; T. J. Marshall, Memphis; Jack Holden, address not ascertained; and C. W. Pruet, a railroad news agent of Kansas City.
T. H. Murray, Myrtle Miss., was seriously injured when he jumped from a second-story window.
The fire is believed to have been caused by the explosion of a gas ole at the foot of a staircase. The bodies of all of those killed have been recovered.

JUDGE, CHARGED WITH DRINKING WITH BOOTLEGGERS, EXONERATED

Committee of Lawyers Makes Report on Investigation of U. S. Judge J. C. Wilson in Texas.

By the Associated Press.
FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 12.— Federal Judge James C. Wilson was exonerated by all charges against him today, following a two months' investigation by a committee of 12 lawyers from the Tarrant Bar Association.
The investigation was demanded
by Wilson's friends, following publication in a Dallas church paper and statements in a sermon here that Judge Wilson was easy on bootleggers, that he ate and drank with them and otherwise encouraged them in their operations.

FARMERS TURN MUD TO PROFIT

By the Associated Press.
CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Nov. 12.—
Continued rain prevented automobile
drivers from going to North Liberty to get their automobiles "stored"
there Saturday after they had become "mired" in the mud returning from the Iowa-Minnesota football game at Iowa City. Nearly 1000 cars, it is said, were stalled in roads leading from Iowa City. Women and children were forced to go without food from noon Saturday
until yesterday morning.
Among the machines stalled were scores bearing Illinois and Missouri licenses. Farmers charged from $2 to $10 for towing machines. One is reported to have made $90 in two hours Sunday morning.

CITY HOSPITAL PHYSICIAN DIES

Dr. Sylvester D. Fox, 46 years old,
of 5129 Kensington avenue, a member of the staff at the City Hospital, died of pleurisy yesterday at the Public Health Service Hospital, after an illness of three weeks.
He was a graduate of Christian Brothers College and starred on the football and baseball teams in 1922-23. During the World War he served with the 384th Infantry, 89th Division as a First Lieutenant, medical corps. He was wounded once. In the right leg. He was a surgeon for the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. for 17 years, serving at various points. Funeral services will be held at 7:30 a. m. Wednesday at St.
Mark's Church.

$20,000 Fire at Dowell, Ill.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
DOWELL, Ill., Nov. 12.—Fire of mysterious origin in a clothing store at Dowell, five miles south of Duquoin, destroyed the building and the post office building, together with the contents early yesterday.
The loss will reach approximately $20,000. While the blaze was at its height, a dwelling several blocks away was destroyed by fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin.

Building for Their Future

Prudent men and women build their Savings Accounts like skillful masons build a wall.
Every week the same amount of dollars are placed to their credit, just as the same number of bricks go into the wall every hour.

Have you started your wall of protection in our great Savings Department? If not, we invite you to start today with any amount, and build for your future. Open tonight until 6:30 o'clock.

FINE DRAMATIC ACTION IN 'THE SIN FLOOD'

"Man Who Saw Tomorrow" and Barrymore's "Sherlock Holmes" Are Other Film Features.

A DRAMATIC quality the like of which is but rarely seen upon the screen pervades every situation in "The Sin Flood," the week's film feature at the New Grand Central Theater. This is a picture version of a remarkably powerful play by Henning Berger, a Swedish dramatist. In the American version the scenes are laid in a Southern city, which is not identified, though the opening scene is a fine view of the New Orleans harbor. Conflicts are introduced early in the action. There is a girl who loves a man who is about to die. The business rivalry of two brothers is such that they all but fight whenever they meet. An itinerant preacher goes about sounding a deluge warning. Two vagrants follow him and pass the hat, but pocket the proceeds. A tramp haunts a basement barroom and is thrown out each time he tries to grab a bite of lunch. In the turmoil of life there is no time for thoughts of brotherly love.

Then comes the menace of a flood. The great river overflows its banks and sweeps into the city. All of the warring characters are marooned in the basement saloon. Flood doors are closed to keep out the water, but a scientist in the party figures that the supply of air will be exhausted in six hours and all will die. The fine dramatic quality of the piece comes in here with a depiction of the change that comes over all the characters when facing seemingly certain death. Sworn enemies become brothers. All past scores are wiped out. Then suddenly as the menace came, it vanishes. The sentimental bonds of brotherhood are sundered and everybody again is at everybody else's throat, with only one exception, which makes the happy ending. The would-be flitter marries the girl. It is all done with the artistry of a fine stage play. Richard Dix, James Kirkwood and Helene Chadwick have the leading roles and the cast throughout is excellent. On the bill also is a fine program of jazz music by the Benson Orchestra of Chicago.

Barrymore's "Sherlock Holmes." Fascinating scenes photographed in London and the fine art of John Barrymore are combined to give distinction to the film version of "Sherlock Holmes" on view at the West End Lyric and Capitol Theaters. Whether a Holmes fan will like the play is a matter of personal preference, but it has many elements calculated to appeal to that large section of the movie-going public which likes its melodrama spread on thick. There is less of the Conan Doyle spirit than of the William Gillette impulse in this version, which is natural in view of the fact that the film was designed to follow closely the famous Gillette stage version. We see Holmes first as a student in London and later as a private investigator installed in Baker street. All of the action turns about Holmes' efforts to thwart the gang leader, Moriarty, in obtaining "the papers." In this case a packet of old love letters held by a girl with whom Holmes has fallen in love. The girl is held prisoner by henchmen of Moriarty. With the exception of Barrymore and Miss Carol Dempster, most of the actors are British and the play has a strong flavor of English melodrama. Moriarty's make-up is hauntingly reminiscent of one which Barrymore wore in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." As the screen version is constructed it would have been quite possible for Barrymore to have enacted both the hero and the villain roles, which possibly would have been an improvement. The action clogs at times and the famous scene in which Holmes eludes his opponents by manipulating a lighted cigar in a dark room loses much of its force in the picture, but as a whole the film is entertaining, if not actually thrilling.

Meighan in a Good Role. "The Man Who Saw Tomorrow," this week's leader at the Missouri Theater, is thrilling, yet not a thriller in the cheap sense. Thomas Meighan finds the piece an apt vehicle for a two-hour tour along the high-road of his talent. Virtually an all-star cast is shown, including Leatrice Joy, Theodore Roberts, June Elvidge, Eva Novak, Alec Francis and Albert Roscoe.

The man who saw tomorrow is, of course, Meighan, who as Burke Hammond finds himself pendulumed between two loves. One is the high-born lady, the other a low-born lassie. Shall he wed Lady Helen or little Rita, the bluff skipper's daughter? It's a toss-up with Burke. Then he meets his old friend the professor, psychologist, also a hypnotist. The professor sees at once that Burke is worried, and about women, and about two women—exactly two. Burke admits it, or them. "I can show you your future with each, and then you can choose between them," says the obliging savant. The latter proceeds to hypnotize Burke, who in turn sees—and enacts—his future, first with the Lady Helen as his wife, then with the lovely but lowly Rita. Lady Helen is inordinately ambitious, and she loves no other man. But she plays Burke to the limit, ultimately making him nothing less than the Viceroy of India. Just as the bull intended for the Viceroy hits and kills the young man, Lady Helen's lover, the spell is broken.

Burke returns to the hypnotist and marries Rita. His life with her is truly exciting. Also, it is truly wretched, for he loves her and she loves him. The hated rival does his utmost to overthrow Burke, his efforts including a rope-and-tie episode and the throwing overboard of the hero. Burke, like Edmond Dantes, cuts his bonds and get ashore. Just as he is in the act of being shot dead by a henchman of the villain he wakes up again. He asks the professor if the fellow actually kills him, and

One Night Only

Henry Burr

Tenor; sentimental ballads are his specialty. Pairs off with, Campbell in duets.

John Meyer

Baritone; an all-around sort of guy, for he plays the piano and composes songs for recreation.

Frank Croxton

Basso, and, by George, he looks the part—with every one of his 270 pounds.

Rudy Wiedoeft

Saxophonist. Rudy is the guy who first discovered the sax's possibilities. He can do more with it than any man living.

Billy Murray

Tenor and comedian—the ever-efervescent Billy—the speediest singer on the stage.

Albert Campbell

"Little Al," he's only five feet 4, but he has a man-size voice and a man-size personality.

Monroe Silver

Monologist; with a line of humorous chatter as bright as his name. Hear his "Cohen" stories.

Frank Banta

The "keyboard kuss" of the gang. How he does punish that piano!

The Sterling Trio—Campbell, Burr and Meyer
The Peerless Quartet—Campbell, Burr, Meyer and Croxton

For the third time this jolly bunch of entertainers comes to St. Louis. A two-hour program of good old straight-away singing, intermingled with laughter-provoking songs and stories. A program entirely different from last year or the year before. A program that you'll enjoy from opening chorus to final curtain. Remember, this attraction is for one night only—Wednesday night, November 15th. To avoid disappointment, get your seats now.

Advance Seat Sale at Baldwin Piano Co.
Prices: $1.00 to $2.00, Plus Tax

Victor Records by the Eight Popular Victor Artists—solos by Billy Murray and by Henry Burr, monologues by Monroe Silver, weird saxophone sobbings by Wiedoeft, duets by Campbell and Burr, and wonderful close-harmonied selections by the Sterling Trio and the Peerless Quartet—can be obtained at the stores of the Victor Dealers listed to the left.

Remember, these artists will appear in person one night only, and all the songs on the program will be sung in English.

the wise man says he doesn't know "you broke the spell." Of course, Burke goes straightway to Rita and marries her.

Another Tom Mix Hit.

Tom Mix in "Arabia" at the Lyric has one of the most whimsical roles of his long career of daredevil stunts and one which calls for all of his tricks and several new ones. Famous horse, Tony, has a prominent part in the action. Mix has the part of an American cowboy who is induced to impersonate a young Arab prince who would rather see his home and have a good time, than become a ruler of a vast empire. The American blithely journeyed to Arabia and there finds intrigue, deep, dark plotting in full swing. He is called upon to fight and outwits the villainous prince. He meets the son of a Western rancher who is induced to impersonate a young Arab prince who would rather see his home and have a good time, than become a ruler of a vast empire. ## WORKS OF KINNEY AND RUZICKA AT MUSEUM

Etchings and Engravings by Two of Younger American Graphic Artists Shown.

The St. Louis Art Museum is showing this month the work of two of the most prominent members of the younger generation of American graphic artists, Troy Kinney, etcher, and Rudolph Ruzicka, wood engraver, both of New York.

Kinney was born in Kansas City, Mo., in 1871 and studied at the Art Institute of Chicago and the New York School of Art. A sojourn in Spain is said to have awakened in his mind the artistic possibilities of the dance and ever since he has been the unexcelled graphic interpreter of the art. His etchings of the dance are carefully studied from life, with some of the greatest dancers, including Pavlova, Nijinski, Roshanara, Tortola, Adolf Bohm, Fokine and Fokina, as models.

In gathering his material, Kinney attended innumerable rehearsals and performances, viewing the dancers from every angle. Often hours of careful observation were spent in transcribing a single significant gesture or rhythmic movement. Having once been grasped, the initial impression was analyzed carefully, then strengthened and developed, for Kinney's etchings are finished works of art and not impressionistic sketches, though they have the verve and freedom of impressionistic work.

Numerous Prints Shown. These qualities are well exemplified by numerous prints in the current exhibition at the museum, as for instance, in the delightful little etching, "The Seventh Veil," in which the dancer seems poised in the air, so effective is the graceful upward rhythm of the lines. Airy, graceful motion is likewise the theme of the striking etching of Roshanara in her "Nautch Dance of India," in which swirling skirts and little limbs appear to move so rapidly that their outlines are blurred. "The Swallows," shown like many of the other plates in both the finished state and in trial proofs, is a remarkable achievement in rhythm and in the interpretation of free and graceful motion wherein every line is expressive of the sheer joy of living. For Kinney's etchings have a deeper significance than the mere rendition of movement. This exuberance and physical exhilaration are also well expressed in the plates of "Youth," "Zephyr," and "The Dance of the Vine."

The etching of Lopokova and Nijinski in "Les Sylphides" is delightful for its fine pattern and its feeling for light and shade, as well as for its inimitable rendition of tenuous, swirling drapery, and its suggestion of supple limbs moving with great rapidity. Other notable prints in the collection are "Vere Fokina in the Dance of Salome," "Young Echo," "Adeline Genee," "Pavlova in Carmen Ballet," and "Bacchante." Many of these are represented by several trial proofs in which the artist reveals his careful manner of developing the first impressions.

Ruzicka's Rise Rapid. Ruzicka, born in Bohemia, was brought to America when a child. He was apprenticed to a wood engraver in Chicago in 1897, and received a thorough training. In 1907 he began engraving his own designs, and since that time his rise as an original artist has been rapid. His favorite subjects are the buildings, old and new, of New York and other Eastern cities. He engraves with rare charm historic early buildings, the picturesque waterfronts of the great cities, and towering skyscrapers.

The exhibition contains two of his early successes, "St. John's Chapel in Varick St., New York," a structure now facing demolition, and "The Old State House, Boston." In both prints he displays his mastery of the art, for Ruzicka not only designs and cuts his blocks, but prints them as well. The lines are bold and crisply incised, without the sacrifice of atmospheric effect, this quality being particularly marked in the print of the Boston State House, with its soft-toned colors. "Liberty Street" is designed with fine appreciation of the soaring lines of skyscrapers, and presents an effective rendition of distance by the use of two colors, the foreground being in black with highlights in buff, and the distance in buff alone.

Book Illustration. Ruzicka's talent is adapted particularly to the illustration of fine books, and he has met with marked success in this field. The present exhibition includes two of the important volumes for which he supplied the illustrations, "New York," published by the Grolier Club and containing 30 engravings in color, and "Newark," published by the Carteret Book Club, with five engravings in color and 12 in black and white. There is also on view a set of black and white proofs of the illustrations for the volume, "Fountains of Papal Rome," by Mrs. Charles MacVeagh, published by Scribner's.

Other exhibitions on view at the museum are the St. Louis Art League's Eighth Annual Thumb Box Collection, a group of 18 paintings by D. W. Tryon, from the collections of W. K. Bixby and the museum, and a collection of lithographs by the Senefelder Club of London.

Women in West End Report Losses on Saturday Night.

Three women reported having been robbed by purse snatchers on streets in the West End Saturday night.

Mrs. Etta Kelly of 5642 Kingsbury avenue, walking in front of 505 Clara avenue, was stopped by a "tail young man" who threatened her with a knife and then cut the leather strap holding her purse, escaping with the purse. It contained $3.50. Mrs. Bertha Long of 708 Interdiva was robbed of a purse containing $1.60 and a watch when a young man snatched it from her hand near McManis and De Baliviere avenues. Miss Helen Hussman, 5527 Waterman avenue, walking in front of 300 Belt avenue, was robbed of a purse containing $2.15 and trinkets by a man who ran into an alley and escaped.

Every 26th Home in America has a THOR

Think what that means! Every 26th housewife from Canada to Mexico—from the Atlantic to the Pacific—would rather do her washing with a Thor Electric Washing Machine than any other. The Thor has been the choice of over 750,000 owners.

Washes clothes clean—without wear

Every thread—every seam—is washed clean as it was the day the garment was new. And washed clean without wear. Every year literally millions of dollars worth of clothes are ruined by the everlasting rubbing, scrubbing, rough treatment they get on washboards. Such destruction of clothes is but a memory in every 26th home in America. For the Thor with its revolving-reversing cylinder just lifts the clothes and submerges them over and over again—first in one direction and then in the other, until the hot soap-laden water, hotter than human hands can stand, just permeates and cleanses every thread. And the washing is done under your own sanitary home conditions.

The accidental discharge of a shotgun, which he had leaned against a fence, caused the death yesterday of Harold B. Luft, 21 years old, son of Charles G. Luft, an automobile dealer of Alton, Ill. The accident occurred while Luft was hunting rabbits with a party of friends near Chesterfield, Ill., 30 miles northeast of Alton. Luft and his companions were getting over a barbed wire fence which separated the farm of William Eigsby from a railroad right-of-way. In some manner the shotgun was jarred and a charge of shot struck Luft under the chin, passing upward through his brain.

TRAVELERS' ORGANIZATION PLANS OFFICE BUILDING HERE

Committee Named to Seek Site for Structure for Travelers' Protective Association.

The Travelers' Protective Association of America, a fraternal-insurance organization for traveling men, is considering the erection of an office building here. St. Louis is headquarters for the national organization, which has about 102,000 members, about 8000 of whom live here. A committee of the board of directors was appointed Saturday to look for a site. About $500,000 may be spent for the building. If a suitable location is found, said T. S. Logan, national secretary, a building large enough to include offices for rental will be erected. It is not the plan to include club facilities in the structure.

CLEAN ELECTION LEAGUE DINNER

About 200 reservations for plates at the victory dinner of the Clean Election League, to celebrate its success against the Essen machine, had been received up to this morning. J. ## AMERICAN HISTORY FOR AMERICAN CHILDREN

War Broke Out Again in 1701, in Which American Colonists and Indians Played an Important Part.

One Night the Indians Attacked Deerfield.

By HENDRIK VAN LOON,
Author of "The Story of Mankind."

(Copyright, 1922.)

IN the year 1701 war between the two great rivals broke out once more and again France and Spain and England and Holland began to look for allies. On the American continent the struggle now took a more definite shape. The English colonies were beginning to be prosperous and the British Government saw a vague light upon the distant horizon of business profit.

To the King of France a colony still was a private domain—a sort of large shooting preserve inhabited by dutiful subjects and equally dutiful partridges. But many of the British ministers had been recruited from among the merchant class and they appreciated the chance of making an honest shilling where only pennies had grown before. Hence their insistence that Canada be conquered and added to the other English colonies lest the near presence of so many Catholics and Jesuits prove dangerous to the doctrines held by the English settlers.

For the moment they were kept busy in the southern colonies. Spain was an ally of France and when war broke out her armies attacked South Carolina. But the South Carolinians made friends with the Indians who still roamed through the forests of that region and the Indians (who did not care whom they killed as long as they were well paid for their services) turned against the Spaniards and drove them away. A little later an attack by water on Charleston ended in the destruction of several French men-of-war and that was the end of the Spanish peril. Meanwhile, in the North, the other side, the French had offered the larger bribe to the Indians and a sudden attack on the village of Deerfield on a miserably cold night in February of the year 1704 had netted the Indians 43 scalps and more than 100 prisoners. These prisoners the Indians had taken with them into the wilderness. Two dozen of the poor creatures who could not walk fast enough were butchered in cold blood. Of the others only a few returned many years later.

Seven years later the English tried to make up for the lost time and opportunities by dispatching a large fleet and 12,000 men to Quebec. But the expedition had been placed under command of a civilian who happened to be the brother of the favorite court-gossip of good Queen Anne. Nothing was accomplished and Quebec remained safely in French hands.

On the European continent, however, the English were more fortunate. When peace was made in Utrecht in the year 1713, England obtained Nova Scotia and New Foundland and France recognized the British claim to the territory around the great bay which Henry Hudson had discovered upon his last and fatal voyage.

But best of all (from a purely economic point of view) the peace of Utrecht gave the English skippers the "monopoly of the slave trade to South America" for a period of 30 years. In those days no one regarded this business as objectionable. It was extremely profitable both for the owners of the ship and for the crew. It caused an enormous boom in colonial enterprises and made many people rich and happy.

To be continued tomorrow.

Readers who clip and preserve these articles will have a splendid collection of historical facts. Valuable for reference or for supplementing the study of history by children.

RECEIPTS YESTERDAY LARGEST IN 'POP' CONCERTS' HISTORY

Every Seat at Odeon Filled and Many Turned Away—Notable Program Given.

The Symphony Orchestra's management announced that the cash receipts at yesterday's popular concert at the Odeon were larger than ever before in the history of the Sunday afternoon concerts. The crowd not only filled every seat, but overflowed into extra rows of chairs, and a large number was turned away.

The soloist was Mrs. Raymond Havens, contralto, one of that gifted group in Kansas City who, at some casual social gathering, astonished the visitor by organizing on the spot, from among themselves, a concert of professional attainments. She gave the aria, "Che faro senza Euridice?" from Gluck's "Orfeo ed Euridice," and a group of fine songs by Harry T. Burleigh, Edwin Schneider, Powell Weaver and Francesco Leon.

Rarely before has a soloist at a popular concert displayed more of the elements of excellent singing. Mrs. Havens has a very musical and ringing voice, a true contralto; vocal training and style, clear diction, and genuine feeling. The audience gave her a most cordial reception. Her piano accompaniments were played with virtuosity by Mrs. Elva Faeth Rider, also of Kansas City, who was a pupil of Conductor Ganz in Berlin. The director offered a melodious orchestral program, the principal numbers of which were the overture to "Mignon," the first movement of Schubert's "Unfinished" symphony, and a colorful setting of Schumann's "Evening" by Saint-Saens.

Home Face Peeling Becomes Popular

No complexion treatment yet discovered seems to have become so generally popular as the mercurized wax process. The reason evidently is that this method actually gets rid of a bad complexion, instead of merely patching it over.

To temporarily hide or bleach the defective skin, cannot compare with the effect of literally removing the skin itself. Mercurized wax takes off the offending surface skin in flour-like particles, a little at a time, until there's none of it left. The new complexion thus produced exhibits a healthy glow and girlish beauty not obtainable by the usual cosmetic methods. This remarkable wax, which you can get at your drugist's in original one-ounce package, is applied at night in the same way you use cold cream and washed off next morning.

Cancer Quacks Fatal Delay Fears.

Dr. Hanau W. Loeb University Medical School of Mistreat

THIS week has been designed to draw public attention to the danger of cancer and the treatment of cancer by science in combating it. These lines, Dr. Loeb of the University Medical School, prepared an article, entitled "Misleading Quacks," which is published here. The article was issued by the Society for the Control of Cancer.

By HANA THE present-day treatment of cancer consists in early and complete removal—the only method which offers the slightest possibility of cure. The removal is accomplished by surgical operation, X-ray, destructive agents, as cauterization, actual cautery and electrocautery. While surgical operation is the usual procedure, the other agents are available in certain types of cancer occurring in various body regions. The treatment of a disease which is so likely to become hopeless, if not treated in an invidious way, is frequently misdirected by ignorance, misguidance by adherence to impossible hypotheses, as to the cause of disease, by the predatory search for money through the deception of the sick suffering.

These aspects of the subject are summed up under the heading "Treatment of Cancer." Cancer may be cured by removal if the treatment is undertaken early and if it is not too late. Anything short of this removal without beneficial result. It is discouraged by ineffectual treatment, or if the process be scattered by local treatment of the disease, it is easy to see how the possibility of cure will be tremendously lessened. How It Is Mistreated.

For the purpose of discussion, mistreatment of cancer may be considered from the following viewpoints:

1. Internal medication.
2. External medication.
3. Cancer quacks.
4. False theories of disease causation.

1. Unfamiliarity with what is known of cancer.

1. Internal medication: Any who advocates the cure of cancer by the internal administration of drugs is ready to vent his ignorance or his guided. Although most publications, magazines and newspapers deny place in their advertising columns such cancer cures, there are still a few who permit such advertisements to make many victims. Some readers purchase the remedy in hope of relief, many because they feel assured that it can do no harm. Poor victims—they have less chance of cure than the man who would send money to an advertiser who claimed that he would sell a $100,000 United States Government bond for a dollar. Our laws are strict against the latter, but cancer-cure advertisers are relatively immune. Furthermore, in the one instance the advertiser has his money only, and in the other he loses his money surely and his life almost certainly. The public should know that the medical profession would gladly accept any internal remedy which offered the slightest hope in the treatment of cancer or which could in any way retard its progress. Remedies up to the point of being tried are sound wanting. Their use in cancer cases always cause delay, so hard to the operative result and in curable cancers they only hasten the wallet of the fraudulent seller of the remedy.

2. External Medication: Unwise.

2. External medication: Remedies applied externally to the cancer are of two types, caustic and non-caustic. It is within the range of possibility for a caustic agent to destroy a cancer completely and thereby effect a cure. Granting this possibility, does anyone want to take chances by using a caustic agent? What is the probability of the action of which he does not know and the composition of which is probably some well known cheap cauterizing agent mixed with some disgusting substance and sold for a fancy price? What is the chance more to the point, does one wish to risk fatal delay and spread of the growth to try a remedy that is made to sell and which is advertised by the seller for the purpose of discrimination for a condition which always requires the most responsible, intimate and painstaking study?

3. Cancer quacks: The cancer quack is the lowest type of humbug. For money and money alone, he invades his victims, some of whom are actual sufferers, many are not. The net result is that he extracts money from the unsuspecting by false promises in hopes of cancer cases, by instilling fear in the minds of those who have no cancer and occasions fatal delay in curable cases. A more vicious continuation of the lower instincts could hardly be assembled. The public should know that there are no recognized cancer specialists in the sense that they possess special means for the treatment of cancer and that any development in the treatment of cancer must at once be made public property. The use of such a remedy once found will be made obligatory on all recognized practitioners throughout the world. To the type of cancer quacks just

INTENSE NATIONALIST SPIRIT OF TURK SHOWN WHEN RAFET ENTERED CONSTANTINOPLE

Kemalist Commissioner for Thrace Was Center

Women Present—Cap Displaced Fez as Emblem.

The letter from Mrs. Sheridan which follows is one of a new series from the Near East, where she has been for more than a month an eyewitness to the stirring events transpiring there. In this letter she describes the arrival of Rafet Pasha in Constantinople. Other letters in the series will appear shortly.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 25.—
When I first arrived in Constantinople I was bewildered by the beauty of it, by the complication and the multiplicity of its social life, and by the casualness with which it was casualized by international control. I saw Constantinople, but I did not see

Today I see, and I begin to understand. Almost the greatest phenomenon of our age, after the Russian revolution, is the spirit of Turkish nationalism. It is genuine, it is immense. Consider that these people were beaten in the World War, badly.

by tears. They were poverty-stricken, dispersed and crushed, and when they gathered in the streets of Istanbul they were very down. They were to such an extent in extremis that they begged for an American mandate. They were willing, even anxious, to be a protectorate of the United States, but the United States refused.

Then came England with her army of occupation. Engaged, although an enemy, meant safety for the Turks. England had a tradition not to oppress, to respect the religion, the language, the race, the language, the liberty, fair play. The Turk is by instinct friendly, susceptible to kindness, easily won and hypersensitive. He liked all he had heard about the British and he welcomed them. But the Turkish revolutionaries had been changed by the war, so have nations. England acquired something during those years of war that she has been unable to

What splendid, frank parasitism! One felt like clashing cymbals and dancing with vine leaves in one's hair. Instead, I stood upon the balcony of the British Legation and watched the procession, at the approach of which the soviet republic flag was unfurled outside the window.

As Russia is the ally of the Turkish Nationalists, it seemed logical to suppose that she should endeavor to demonstrate their solidarity with the Kemalist triumph. The British, however, for whom the Kemalist triumph is a blow and who doubtless were irritated at having to police the streets of Constantinople during their occupation of Constantinople, they have taken on themselves to do) in Rafet's honor, apparently saw red indeed when they saw the soviet flag.

throw off. It is as if the sun had been extinguished and the world stood in its stead. Toward the Turk, England exercised all the Prussian military methods she had acquired during the war. She tried to colonize the Turk, treated him as though he were a Bedouin or a Nairobian native, offended him, bullied him, ordered his house as though they were not in it.

England did for soviet Russia, England has done for nationalistic Turkey. The Turks have said in almost the same words what the Russians in Moscow said to me two years ago: "We are grateful to England; it is due her that the whole nation has unified."

One Man Has Lifted Them.

England has lifted them, and their

Four British officers broke into the hall and demanded the president. The president protested in the name of his Government but could not oppose formally. The president was very calm and dignified but the British carried off the flag. The president, Zolotarov, said that, unless he received an apology and the restitution of the flag, he would at once return to Ukraine.

Although the British would be enlightened, if he had not pointed out that the British soldier, who makes life a burden in Constantinople, refused to pass the story. It took from 7 p. m. until 1 a. m. to get that telegram through in the end by going to general headquarters and informing Gen. Harington that the censor-

And out of their despair one man has lifted them, one man has brought them hope. Out of their defeat one man has led them to victory. Out of their nothingness one man has created everything they have and are today.

There is this man, woman or child, it seems, who does not worship the man Mustapha Kemal, their savior. One can hardly visualize what will happen when Kemal makes his entry into Constantinople.

* Rafet Pasha, the Nationalist High Commissioner for Thrace, is not par-

That part of Constantinople known as Pera is where the foreign legations, headquarters of interlarded control and of the Greek, Armenian, Turkish, Russian and Levantine populations, has long ago lost all sense of individuality or of nationalism. When the Greeks had victories, the main street of Pera was blue; when the Kemalists had victories, it turned red.

Pera will turn any color that is for the moment fashionable. Is Kemal's victories created a rumor that Kemal's army had entered into the town of the White Russians?

sheepskin cap, like a Russian "kubrik". He was dressed in a simple, but not without nationalistic, uniform. It threatens to become the national headdress in the place of the fez.

I saw this fur-crowned, elegant Pasha on the balcony of the Red Crescent headquarters at Stamboul. I heard him make a speech to the crowd below and the crowd was nearly mad. When he had finished and the cheering abated, some speeches spontaneously came from the crowd.

Kemal listened, with a face like a mask. He listened coldly, true to his name, and he was not at all cold and calm like Kemal. Kemal's Generals are modest and impersonal like Kemal. Rastef Pasha knew this too, so that he was not for him, but for the crowd.

The orator in the crowd spoke with a voice vibrant with passionate emotion. Never did the most fanatical revolutionary speak in a more revolutionary paper is said to have gone to the soviet office and offered to change its color to red for a certain sum. Zolotaroff replied that he could buy cheaper bolshéviki in Russia.

From sundown, still as death, never a light. On the other side, across the bridge, Pera in violent contrast, brightly illuminated, scintillating nervously—emblematic of the mad anxiety of the western intruders.

only 10 per cent. The payments already recd by France, he said, are going to maintain a permanent army of 800,000 men and thus provide hatreds which will bring about new wars, while the people of devastated areas are suffering for lack of homes.

He concluded by predicting the gain of 100 or 150 seats by labor candidates in the approaching general elections in England and that the British working men would join hands with the German people to overthrow militaristic and imperialistic governments.

Mexico Disputes U. S. Court's Power. By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 13.—The Mexican Government denied the jurisdiction of the United States Federal Court in the writ of attachment of the Oliver Trading Co., which recently was removed from the New York State Supreme Court to the Federal Court and will not appear before the Federal tribunal, says a bulletin issued by the Foreign Office. The bulletin asserts that international law provides that a case of this nature must be tried in the Mexican courts.

Prendergasts and Leos Win Cup Games From Municipal Rivals, in Close Contests

Paul Muellers and Prendergast Soccer Teams Play Last Thirty Minutes of Their Game With Only Ten Men, Each Losing a Player Through Disqualification.

By Herman Wecke.

The St. Louis and Prendergast, Municipal Soccer Association representatives, advanced to the third round in the United States Football Association Cup championship series yesterday, when they won the games played at Sportsman's Park. The Leos downed the Ben Millers, 2 to 1, while the Prendergasts were returned the winners over the Paul Muellers, 2 to 0.

Mickey McLennan of the Prendergasts and "Red" O'Shea of the Paul Muellers will without a doubt draw a suspension for their first fight yesterday. Both were ejected from the battle by Referee Wall. Their teams played the last 30 minutes of the game with only ten men.

The Leos won, despite the fact that two of the eleven leading stars, Larry Riley and Halfback Crook, were missing. These players were protected by Manager Marre of the Millers as being ineligible, and Manager Kloterman kept them on the sidelines.

The Leos were first to score, putting over a goal when they were awarded a penalty kick by Referee Byrne on Fullback Sleater's foul. "Goalie" Madsen got his hands on Hitchcock's shot, but was unable to hold it and it rolled into the net. Shortly before the half ended, the Millers tied it on a shot from Crook.

Some good passing enabled O'Reilly to tally the winning goal for the St. Leos in the closing period.

During the contest, the Millers had more chances to score, but were unable to break through the tight St. Leo defense.

Center Forward Brengle proved the star for the Prendergasts in the victory over the Paul Muellers. He counted both goals and incidentally he also suffered a "knockout" when he collided with the goal post in trying for a score. He was forced out for a time, but he came back in time to give his team the second point.

A bit of luck was attached to the first goal for Brengle, which came in the opening period. He made a low shot, which Hutt fumbled and allowed to roll into the net. The second goal came in 10 minutes before the end of the battle.

Double Referee System Proves Success; Scullins Win, Millers and Hoovers Tie

Spectators, who viewed yesterday's double-header of the St. Louis Soccer League at High School Field, saw the inauguration of the double referee system, an innovation in kicking circles, decided that the latest move was a success. Yesterday's games were cleanly fought, and it was the opinion of old-time soccer followers that the new system would do away with many fouls.

In the title yesterday, the Scullins national champions, finally put over another goal and this enabled them to defeat the Prendergasts, 1-0, and thereby tie the Harry McCarthy's men for first place. In the other title, the Dan Miller and Hoover-Barrett went to a 3-3 draw.

The same referees were used in both games yesterday. They were Billy Hinson and "Red" Roche, Hinson and Roche being unable to get two more, made necessary as a result of the resignation of Paul Hinson and Roche.

JACK CLEAVE.

Princeton backfield mainstay, hero of Tigers' victory over Chicago, will be relied upon to break Yale's defense for a score next Saturday.

Cleveland Likely To Extend Soldan

South Side Eleven Will Be Reinforced for High School Feature Game Saturday.

The fourth week of competition for the Interscholastic League football championship will be featured by the clashes between teams which are regarded as "natural rivals," Central and McKinley will battle in one of the twin bill, Soldan and Cleveland in the other.

While it is true that McKinley has shown fight in its several games, the kick of the Russell Avenue eleven has been the best of the league. The work of Ollerman and La Barge, the husky fullback, who has been the only consistent ground gainer for the team. The center of the line is weak and the passing from the pivot has been poor. The catching of punts is a McKinley weak spot. Three plays better than Cleveland, but this comparison cannot be relied upon. The Carondelet team was in poor shape when they met the Blue and White, while Soldan was in the pink of condition.

Soldan showed a backfield weakness last week. Capt. Weston was the only Brown and Gold runner who enjoyed any degree of success against the Carondelet team.

The game this week will be the farwell exhibition of the McKinley eleven this season.

The standing of the teams:

Scullins	2	0	3	5	3
Hoovers	0	1	4	6	7

Pikers Will Have Strongest Lineup Ready for Tigers

Captain Denny, However, May Not Be Able to Take His Place at Tackle.

The Pikers are resting the hope of a victory Saturday over their ancient enemies, the Tigers, more on their ability to pile up points than on their uncertain ability to prevent the heavier team from scoring.

Last year, when Kershaw stole across the line after he had been thrown, to get away with a 7-0 triumph for the Tigers, Washington's strength was in its line. This year the line is its weakness.

For this reason a stiff workout on the defensive will feature the practice behind closed gates which begins today. This, tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday will be taken up with scrimmages against the scrubs and the freshmen, who will employ Missouri's plays.

The Pikers, according to Coach Rider, will go into the Missouri game with the strongest line-up they have been able to produce since they met the Kansas Aggies. The backfield is capable and smooth-working.

Captain May Miss Game. Capt. Bob Denny may be out of the game, and Herb Kurrus will be kept out by his injuries in the Ames' contest, probably for the rest of the season. Schnaus, who broke a bone in his hand two weeks ago, will play, but his effectiveness probably will not be up to normal.

Cocher Rider in recent practice has achieved an effective combination for offensive play. The backfield is left half to right end and Walsh from end to Green's place. Green is the bigger man and better able to handle the heavy Missourian tackles. This scheme is not used Saturday. Dugdale will play the end and Walsh will be held for relief, with Hutton and White.

Thurmer at Quarterback. Mathes, the 185-pounder who last year repeatedly smashed through the Tiger line, will be in the best shape of the year, and Claypool, at right half, will be in good condition. The veteran Thurmer will call the plays from quarterback and handle kicks, with Lyle, Weber and Tancil for relief.

Central and Soldan will rule favorites in their respective games. Central has displayed a punch this year which has downed both Cleveland and Westman, while the Grimses charges of Coach Carleson have been beaten down by Soldan and Cleveland in the other.

Tigers' Tackling Was Weak Against Harvard's Eleven

Roper Must Drill His Team in This Phase of Game Before Battle With Yale.

By Lawrence Perry.

(Copyright, 1922.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Now for Yale. The Princeton Varsity eleven came through the Harvard game without serious injury to any of its players and with the contents of its reputed bag of tricks by no means exhausted. Snively, the fountain head of the Nassau overhead system, was used but sparingly and so far as the aerial game is concerned, Cleave, another forward passer pulled under stops. At least he showed none of the stuff he showed against Chicago.

So it may be assumed that this "tricky" Princeton team, which was tricky only in spots against Harvard, will try to dazzle the Eli's with new plays next Saturday.

Until an offense is produced, however, it is unwise to count too much upon it. All that may be said today is that Yale will find the Tiger defense much stronger than she thought and that it will be very dangerous for her to commit misplays.

Tigers' Tackling Weak. As to the positive side of the game, one must wait and see. The Tigers should spend the next few days in live tackling practice because in this department of the game, Princeton displayed work Saturday that was far from flawless. But aside from this, the team was seldom fooled by Harvard's attempts at deceit and where Harvard made her decisive gains weak tackling and a defective diagnosis by Princeton, was the chief contributing cause.

Princeton's punting was short in distance against Harvard and in the last quarter this inferior service likely to give Harvard the game. So against Yale, it may play havoc with the Tigers. On the other hand, no fault was to be found with the down field work of the Princeton players and this helps to make up for a disparity in punting ability. It certainly did against Harvard, and unless Eli's ends are up to snuff it will against Yale.

Baker Played Star Game. Harvard players said after the game that all the Princeton men played a clean game with the exception of "Pinky" Baker. They thought Baker was inclined to be overzealous. If this was so, it was not apparent to the spectators. The stands did not, however, that he played a tremendous game and helped his team to victory by his activity and versatility.

Michigan Only Major Team Whose Goal Line Has Not Been Crossed

Nevertheless the Wolverines Have Many Rivals in Race for National and Western Conference Titles—Nebraska and California Sure Sectional Champions.

By John E. Wray.

Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Only two weeks until the annual sectional uproar over the "best eleven in the United States" will be heard in the land. Expert yelps from coast to coast, with an occasional chirp from Vox Populi and Old Subscriber will help make the innocent bystander at this football ruction think the entire gridiron world has just kissed the blarney stone.

Lost our own feeble cry he lost in the babel of intersectional tongues, we will beat everybody to it by overlooking the dope, today. Dope is no longer football's anchor. Some might dispute this because there certainly are flukes connected with it. The fact remains that only in less important cases can comparative scores be taken as an indication of what the gladiators of the gridiron are going to do.

Time was when a two-touchdown lead, going into the last quarter of a football game, meant an iron-clad clinch on victory; but we note Princeton-Chicago episode, the proof that it is nothing in the life of a football eleven of today to be a mere couple of touchdowns to the good. Two or three wild heaves and the ball is over, the game reversed, and an afternoon of patient, bone-crushing effort by the 22 men involved, is overbalanced.

One sometimes wonders of what avail is battling to advance the ball by rushing, when the effect can be offset by an accidental pickup of a loose ball or a far-flung bit of leather retrieved by one man?

Only Two Inevitable Goals. However, these conditions exist and under them it is interesting to note today that in all the country there are only two teams worthy of note whose goal line has not been crossed by rushing, kicking or forward passing. These two "miracle" teams are Michigan and Marquette.

U. S. Championship. Yale, Princeton, Cornell, California, Michigan, Iowa, Washington and Jefferson, Army, Notre Dame, both hands up here; impossible to guess.

Western Conference. Michigan, Iowa, Chicago—Toss a coin is the best way out.

Valley Conference. Nebraska, outclass the field, although Drake and Kansas Aggies are unbeaten.

Southern Teams. Georgia Tech, Centre, Alabama, which is just below the title fight.

As for the national title, Cornell, Princeton, Washington and Jefferson, California, Michigan, Iowa, Army and Notre Dame are still unwhipped. There is positively no way to win the rest of the country to it by naming the leading contenders. But one would like to see this Cornell outfit get a real test. His only formidable trial will be against Pennsylvania, which is just below the title fight.

Blow at 'Expense' Grafters Seen in A.A.U. Suggestion

Promoters Must Deal With Clubs, Not Individuals, Under Proposed Rule Change.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Abolishing of registration fees for athletes admitted to membership in the Amateur Athletic Union is one of the most important of proposed amendments to the A. A. U. constitution which will be acted upon at the national convention of the organization here Nov. 19, 20, 21.

This amendment proposed by officials of the South Atlantic A. A. U., also would eliminate the annual renewal clause in the registration requirements. Under the present system, a change of 25 cents is made for each registration and athletes are required to register each year.

Costs 37 Cents Per Card.

Economy has been urged as the reason for doing away with the method, investigation having revealed that it costs the association 37 cents for each individual card issued.

Disqualification as amateurs of life guards and bath or playground attendants who receive compensation for their services is sought in another proposed amendment included in the report for the A. A. U.'s Legislative Committee and made public today. Athletes holding such positions, who do not coach, instruct or give exhibitions in connection with their duties would be permitted to retain their amateur standing but, under another section of the amendment, would be ineligible to competition until dissociated from such employment.

Such a change, it is pointed out, would affect the status of a number of leading swimmers, particularly those in college ranks, who accept employment on beaches during summer months.

Blow at 'Expense' Grafters.

Another proposal provides that organizations seeking out-of-town stars as attractions for meets must deal with the club or organization with which the athlete is affiliated, instead of the individual. In the case of unattached athletes it would be compulsory on the part of the organization holding the meet to negotiate with the club or organization of the athlete.

Big Purses for Golf Professionals Bad for Sport, U. S. G. A. Warns

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.

THE United States Golf Association yesterday issued a warning and protest against the growing practice of offering large purses as an inducement to professionals to compete in open tournaments and exhibitions.

"While the U. S. G. A.," says a statement of the executive committee, has no desire to hinder or hamper professionals from competing in prize money tournaments or from earning money to the limit of his ability, nevertheless the present officials feel that if the practice now in vogue is not checked, great harm will be done in creating a class of professional players who will devote their entire time and attention to attending tournaments.

"It is therefore earnestly requested that the question of moderate prize money awards be carefully considered, bearing in mind that if this practice is allowed to be commercialized by the professionals, as in other sports, the phenomenal interest now taken in the ordinary golfer in the game will be nullified to a great extent."

which the athlete was registered. This proposal, it was asserted, is aimed at minimizing the possibility of exorbitant demands for expenses by athletes.

Important among changes urged in swimming competition is a proposal to hold all outdoor championships as one meet at a centrally situated place, extending over a period of three days, instead of the custom of awarding title events to clubs and organizations all over the country.

BLOUIN HAS 193-PIN LEAD OVER LINDSEY IN TITLE BOWLING MATCH

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Jimmy Blouin of Chicago, world's individual bowling champion, had a lead of 193 pins, or 10 40-60 points over Mort Lindsey of Stamford, Conn., the challenger, when the final block of 20 games was started here today. For the first 40 games Blouin totaled 802, an average of better than 200, while Lindsey counted 7835.

Under the system of scoring, which in the match used in 1921, a pin gives a point for each 50 pins, as well as games won, Blouin has 184 22-80 and Lindsey 173-35-50. Blouin to date has won 24 games and lost 16.

The champion made his best showing in the 10 games bowled last night, when he totaled 2101, an average of 210, while Lindsey was shooting 1922. Prior to these 10 games, Blouin had a lead of only 8 20-30 points.

Yesterday's scores:

Afternoon.

Lindsey, 180-170-210-198-172-190-234-223-204-1947.

Blouin, 158-204-214-204-191-205-199-198-197-173-194.

Night.

Blouin, 183-227-257-204-212-193-194-193-201-247-3101.

The Evidence of a Better Understanding

THE last four years have marked the growth of a better understanding between the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and the public it serves. This better understanding is evidenced by the fact that four years ago there were but 4623 stockholders on the books, whereas today the number has increased to 26,560.

Misunderstanding necessarily disappears when people are frank. In the last four years the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has published in a frank and open manner a vast amount of important news concerning its methods of refining and distributing petroleum products. It has explained the factors upon which prices are based; it has given figures which explain why the demand for its products, and especially for gasoline, is continually increasing; and by its frankness the Company has prospered.

The efficient and economical refining and distribution of petroleum products is a highly specialized business requiring years to develop. The very permanency of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is a dominant factor in the high quality of its service. Because of this permanency the management of the Company has been able to mature and carry out plans for service which required long periods of time and great sums of money to accomplish.

In its efforts to provide a perfect service, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has developed a constructive and comprehensive Industrial Relations Plan to promote harmonious relations between the management and employee. This program includes adequate retirement annuities, modern safety devices, continually improved working conditions, and a practical plan whereby employees are enabled to accumulate savings and invest them.

This program tends to make all employees better citizens and better workers, vitally interested in serving the public.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) believes in fair dealing toward all, the public, its customers, its competitors, and its employees.

FOREIGN BONDS SHOW BUSINESS; STOCKS RALLY

Irregularity Marks Early Exchange Session—French Following Decline—Coal Situation.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

The sharp decline in stock prices which began on last Friday afternoon was arrested in today's session. After opening irregularly low, the market showed distinct weakness in the second hour. Support appeared at the levels reached, however, and toward the close a large proportion of industrials showed fractional gains. Rails, on the other hand, were fractionally lower. Sentiment favored the view that on technical grounds at least a rally was in order. In the bond department, Libby's and other selected issues were quiet and relatively little moved, while speculative issues moved in sympathy with stocks. The feature here was continued weakness in foreign bonds, French 7½s dropping to a new low of 91½ and the 4½s touching 92½. Call money held at 4 per cent throughout.

Italian Exchange Strong.

"Following London's lead, most of the European exchanges marked their recovery. Italian lire stood out with another impressive exhibition of strength, gaining 20 points at 4½ cents. Sterling also was persistently bought and added ½ of a cent to Saturday's closing price in selling at 1447. The exception to the general trend were French and Belgian francs. The former started weak both at London and on this side of the water and reached 4½ points to 4.35 cents. Later, however, it rallied and in the afternoon commanded 4½ cents. Belgian francs acted similarly, but did not quite make good their early losses, going off 2 points at 53½ cents. German marks were firm at 91½ of a cent.

"Cotton prices were lower at Liverpool and cables from that side speak of short selling and other advanced improvement having been checked by the advances in prices. This condition brought a further opening and early weakness on this side of the water. Our market, however, digested a good volume of liquidation and short selling and then advanced briskly. This December which had fallen to 23½ cents rallied up to 24.34 and after receding 4 points from the latter price, closed at 24.34 to show a net gain of 23 points on the day. Wheat also was firm, but relatively quiet, and other grain staples which are holding this market in a waiting attitude are the car situation, the Turkish position and the fluctuations in the foreign exchange. December gained ¼ of a cent at 115½.

Coal Situation Survey.

"Reports to the Geological Survey indicate that the improvement in coal production is being maintained. Last week's output of bituminous coal was placed at 10,000,000 tons, which is slightly higher than the actual total for the week before. The survey states, furthermore, that 1,000,000 tons were added to consumers' stocks ending September and that at least as much more was added in October."

ST. LOUISANS LEAVE FOR WORLD CRUISE

His Circuit Court of Appeals District Included St. Louis Funeral Tomorrow.

Voyage, Beginning at New York to Be Entirely in Warm Latitudes.

Fifteen of the 17 St. Louisans who will be among the 400 passengers of the Cunard liner "Laconia" on its cruise around the world, to end March 30, this week started to New York, where the steamer sails Nov. 21.

Mrs. Lawrence B. Pierce and her daughter, Miss Katherine Pierce, are visiting in the Canal Zone and will join the party at Panama on Nov. 23. Havana will be the first port of call, and from that point the steamer will pass through the Canal and up to San Francisco. The route has been arranged so that it will be entirely in the tropics or semi-tropics.

The Rev. Mr. Whitlock declined today to state how much money the envelope contained, beyond that it was a "substantial sum."

W. S. BASCOM, 71, DIES AT HOME OF HEART DISEASE

Manager of Rope Company, Ill. Intermittently for Some Time, at Business Until Noon Saturday.

William S. Bascom, 71 years old, manager of the Broderick & Bascom Rope Co., died of heart disease last night at his home, 4323 West Pine boulevard. Although he had been suffering intermittently from heart trouble for several years, he had been attending to business as usual up to last Saturday noon.

He was a brother of Joseph D. Bascom, chairman of the board of directors of the rope company, and had been identified with the company since it was founded. He is survived by two daughters and three sons. His wife, Mrs. Jane Devaney Bascom, died four years ago.

The funeral will be held at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday, from the New Cathedral, to Calvary cemetery.

A week at Port Said will permit visits to Cairo, and to either the Sphinx, pyramids and other ancient wonders, or to Jerusalem and other points in the Holy Land.

Some of the St. Louisans have considered leaving the ship at Naples, which will be reached March 14, and spending Easter in Rome, but have not yet made definite arrangements to do so. If they continue on the regular trip, they will spend March 18 in Monaco, March 21 in Gibraltar and reach New York nine days later.

St. Louis Contingent. The St. Louisans going on the tour, besides Mrs. Pierce and her daughter, are: Mr. and Mrs. George M. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Whitelaw, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Whitelaw, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bascom, Mr. and Mrs. Alex B. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Johnson and Christopher J. W. Charles Rebeck, Mr. J. S. Sullivan and Henry Greve.

The steamer was chartered and the tour arranged for by the American Railway Express Co.

ELLIS MURDER TRIAL IS CONTINUED UNTIL JAN. 8

Action Taken When Defense Attorney Tells Court Important Witness Is Out of City.

The trial of Albert Ellis, charged with the murder of his former fiancée, Edna Ellis, was continued to Jan. 8 for the defense today when the case was called in Circuit Judge Hogan's court.

William Maffitt Bates, attorney for Ellis, told the court, as he told the Circuit Attorney last week, he would that an important defense witness was out of the city. Few witnesses appeared when the case was called today.

Ellis was tried once, in January, 1934, and sentenced to life imprisonment, but the Supreme Court of Missouri, reversing the verdict, ordered a new trial. Miss Ellis, it will be remembered, was slashed to death with a razor on a vacant lot near Glasgow avenue and North Market street, the night of Nov. 4, 1930.

ARMY FLYER KILLED WHEN PLANE HITS TREE IN RELAY

Lieut. John Blaney's Machine Caught Fire After Accident at Hartford (Conn.) Aviation Meet.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 12.—Lieut. John Blaney, army flyer from Mitchell Field, L. I., was killed instantly yesterday when taking part in the Hartford aviation meet. His plane struck a tree and crashed when about to land.

Lieut. Blaney was completing the third lap of the race and flew close to the ground. He was flying about 140 miles an hour when the plane hit the tree. His gasoline tank took fire and immediately the plane was blazing.

Officers from Mitchell Field decided the accident was due to a miscalculation on the part of the aviator. Twenty thousand persons saw the crash.

Why Sailors
Eat Sauerkraut

ONE of the interesting facts which has come to light in the recent discoveries regarding the value of sauerkraut as a preventive and corrective of various diseases is that for years sailors on long cruises and explorers on long journeys have made sauerkraut a part of their daily diet. This is because it has a tendency to prevent scurvy, a serious disease due to a deficiency of fresh fruits and vegetables in the diet.

And the same properties which make sauerkraut a real health food for sailors and explorers make it equally valuable for everybody. It contains all three of the vitamins—the mysterious "growth substances" which science has learned so much about lately. And it is rich in lactic acid, which is known to be one of the most efficacious of intestinal cleansers and disinfectants.

In many great hospitals, sauerkraut is now being used with marked results in cases of diabetes, constipation, gout, rheumatism and various skin diseases.

The story of all these remarkable discoveries regarding sauerkraut is interestingly told in the free booklet, "Sauerkraut as a Health Food." It contains also recipes for preparing this delicious food. Mail this coupon for your copy.

ACCIDENT IN COUNTY
ON RIVERVIEW DRIVE

Thelma Pierce, 9, Dies of Broken Neck—Injured Include Father, Sister and Two Aunts.

Thelma Pierce, 9 years old, 2404 North Ninth street, was killed last night when an automobile driven by her father, Roy Pierce, 34, a barber, overturned and fell into a creek on Riverview drive, St. Louis County.

Pierce, another daughter, Alma, 7, and two sisters-in-law of Pierce, Maud Toller, 18, and Christina Toller, 13, of 911 Montgomery street, were injured. Pierce said he thought that were pinned beneath the car for about an hour, until rescued by persons passing by.

The accident occurred about 9:30 p. m., about two miles north of Chain of Rocks. Pierce was driving south. A tire blew out and the car skidded, breaking through the railing of a bridge and dropping 20 feet into the creek. Eventually the occupants were rescued by other motorists.

Thelma Pierce was found to be dead, having suffered a fracture of the neck. Her sister, Alma, was internally injured. Christina Toller suffered a fracture of the right leg and bruises on the left hip. Pierce suffered fractures of ribs on both sides and other injuries, and Maud Toller, the only one not seriously hurt, was bruised on both hips.

Pierce was taken to the city hospital and held prisoner pending the coroner's inquest.

Five Persons Hurt in Four Other Auto Accidents Yesterday.

Five persons were injured in four other automobile accidents yesterday.

John Fritz, 50, 4359 Wilcox avenue, trying to turn his sedan from Allen avenue into Broadway, stopped on the car track and was struck by a southbound Lee car. Several of his ribs were fractured. Other occupants of the machine were not injured.

Seaborn Smith of 1017 Howard street and Andrew Bechel of 2129 South Twelfth street were cut when hit by a machine at Broadway and Humboldt avenue.

Kenneth Querry, 13, 4591 Easton avenue, boarding a street car at King's highway and Chouteau avenue, was knocked down and bruised by an automobile driven by a negro, who then stopped. A white man hit the driver in the face.

IMPLIES STANDARD OIL CO. SHOULD PAY TAX-PENALTY

Representative Frear Asks Mellon in What Cases Provision Regarding Surplus Accumulations Has Been Invoked.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Secretary Mellon is asked in a letter sent him yesterday by Representative Frear, Republican, Wisconsin, to state in what cases the Treasury Department has invoked the provision of the 1921 revenue law imposing penalties where corporations allow surpluses to accumulate in order to permit their stockholders to avoid payment of high income surtaxes.

The letter constitutes another chapter in the correspondence between the House Ways and Means Committee member and the Treasury Secretary with regard to the 400 per cent stock dividend recently declared by the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey. Mellon has ruled that the penalty provision could not be made applicable in the case of such stock dividends.

Quoting from the "Lamp," the official publication of the Standard Oil Co., to the effect that the New Jersey company's net earnings in the 10 years ended in 1921 had been $775,163,240, taxes paid $115,517,677, cash dividends paid to stockholders $222,065,226, and $437,580,357 "absorbed by the needs of the business." Frear translates these figures into these percentages: Net profits, 77 1/2 per cent annually; cash dividends, 22 per cent annually; and surplus, 44 per cent annually.

"On this showing," he writes, "I ask you is it possible that you cannot find question in your mind for the imposition of the penalty provided in section 220?"

Mysterious Murder Discovered.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 12.—Mysterious circumstances surround the murder of a man believed to have been John O'Neill, near Dodson, early yesterday. The body, with the throat cut from ear to ear, was found lying in a clump of bushes by a dog accompanying A. J. Fields, proprietor of a garage. Police found evidence of a terrific struggle near the scene, and a bloody knife was found. Bank books containing the name "John O'Neill" were found on the body.

Board of Education City of St. Louis

At a regular meeting of the Board of Education of the City of St. Louis, held on October tenth, 1922, Hon. Stephen M. Wagner, a member of said Board, submitted the following resolution which was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, the Board of Education of the City of St. Louis has approved contracts for the construction of a new high school, to be located on the south side of Fairview Boulevard, between Cassien Avenue and Louisiana Avenue; and

Whereas, the Board of Education has by its action this evening officially named this school the in honor and memory of the late President of the United States; and

Whereas,

The late President Roosevelt having been such a lover of children, it is felt no higher tribute could be paid him than has been done by the Board's action this evening, nor a greater incentive given to the children, who will later attend this school, than in the study of the life and character of the man for whom their school was named; therefore, Be it

Resolved,

That the Secretary and Treasurer be directed to have a suitable painting of the proposed new school made, and, together with an engraved copy of this resolution, sent to the widow of the late Theodore Roosevelt.

She Bought Violets

By Sophie Irene Loeb

DAY after day she passed the little shop and looked in at the window. At the rare exotic blooms. There were gardenias and orchids and roses. That had been tenderly reared to bring a great price. And violets—modest violets there were. And her soul hungered as she looked at them. Their purple petals breathed joy. Her hands, with threadbare gloves, ached with cold. And her feet were nearly numb. But she heeded not her pain. In the pleasure of gazing at the lovely blossoms. Ah! how she wished that she might gather them in her arms. And bury her face in their scent. But with a sigh she hastened to the lowly place where she purchased her meager meal. And then to the grind of the day. In the buzz of the machines about her. She closed her eyes and saw the bunch of violets. Came the day on a white world. When people hurried to and fro. None noticed the frail figure that stood before the shop window. She could resist no longer! She hurried in and bought the violets. And paid the price of her simple meal. And as her small face, with its brown ringlets, hid itself in the coveted cluster. A great spirit of joy overcame all. For she had satisfied the hunger of her soul. She bought violets. And as the hours went by the weary body at work. Called aloud for the nourishment that did not come. And soon a heavy mist swam before her eyes. A dull pain—and then she knew no more. Until someone said, "She bought violets." And a smile came to her lips. For her soul had been satisfied. And there be many such who need the solace of beauty. Even more than bread for the body. For the hunger of the soul is never-ending, never appeased. Since it is constantly called upon. To sacrifice much in the scheme of things sordid.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

Some of the Beautiful Reasons Tablecloths Are Less in Favor Now.

THE passing of the tablecloth, except for use at state functions, has caused a great commotion among housewives. The fact remains, however, that the fashion of using doilies sets has come to stay. The choice in doilies is wide and becomes still wider as the fad gains impetus. For those who like Chinese patterns there is a fine woven straw or willow set, consisting of a centerpiece and place and glass doilies, which is a joy, for it may be wiped off with a damp cloth after meals, is soft and pliable, and with a fruit basket in the center and Canton china in old blue makes a charming table. Then, there are also Japanese straw sets, oddly painted, which are lovely when used with the cool green sedge ware, with a black lacquer fruit bowl in the center of the table, or an opalescent glass flower plaque with a single pink rose floating on the water. Candles have also gone out for smart table use. Women declare that they have become so common in public eating places, where they are often electrified, that they have ceased to be quaint and exclusive. They also obstruct the across-table view, which interferes with conversation. In their place, fruit bowls are used, and the general effect of low and flat decorations is the fad of the moment. Luncheon sets of unbleached muslin with a colored linen hem turned back on the outside, couched down with black floss and decorated with motifs of the same colored linen, are very popular. A set with a yellow hem, with black stitching and pastel colored linen motifs, used in conventionalized fruit decoration, is most attractive, especially with yellow dishes and a blue glass flower dish in the center. Black satin doilies make up another set, embroidered with nasturtium blossoms. The oddity of this black set is accentuated by the use of orange china and a red flower basket for a centerpiece. Women using the long refectory tables are adopting the Bohemian idea of a long center runner with as many cross-runners as are needed for the number of guests to be seated. These sets are made of monks' cloth in soft, grayish tan, and are decorated with cross-stitch borders and arabesques or flower baskets in dainty colorings. If the colorful Bohemian china is used with the cloths, as likely as not there will be a real Bohemian glass flower bowl for the center, which will be a joy to look upon. These people are doing dishes to order in their native studios, from ancient designs that are new to most of us, and often riotous in color, but harmonious with it all. French sets, so-called, are of fine linen, simply buttonholed for a scalloped edge. Then, the initials are worked across the ends of the runner or in the middle of the squares. Napkins come to match all the sets and are in the 27-inch or breakfast size. Dinner-size napkins are used only on occasions that bring forth the damask cloth from its blue-cloth wrappings. Black oilcloth sets, gaily painted or etched, are an odd fancy and many at-home artists are doing theirs in exclusive patterns. One seen recently was done with wreaths of corn flowers and a black fruit basket with gold decorations was painted with flowers to match. Blue dishes of plain, unfigured Japanese china were used with the set, while blue linen napkins, hemstitched, carried out the color scheme.

ODD FACTS

MANY fish are capable of producing sounds, some by the scraping of fins or other organs, some by means of the teeth, and some by means of gas emitted from the air-bladder. "Never be in a hurry with a bee," is an expert's advice to bee-keepers. The bee resents haste, and will probably sting you unless you move slowly but with confidence.

Love Letters That Made History

By JOSEPH KAYE

Lee and Mary Park Custis

NOT a love letter is this, in the sense of burning and passionate phrases. But the letter of a man whose heart is filled with love at all times, who needs no sudden emotion to kindle a new spurt of flame for the woman who fills his life, and the home circle she has created for him. This letter was written by Gen. Lee, commander-in-chief of the Confederate armies, to his wife, who was Mary Park Custis, great-granddaughter of Martha Washington. You do not know how much I have missed you and the dear children, my dear Mary. To be alone in a crowd is very solitary. In the woods I feel sympathy for the trees and the birds in whose company I take delight, but experience no pleasure in a strange crowd. I hope you are all well and will continue so, and I must again urge you to be very prudent and careful of those children. If I could only get a squeeze at that little fellow turning up his sweet mouth to 'keese baba!' You must not let him run wild in my absence and you will have to exercise firm authority over all of them. This will not require severity or even strictness, but constant attention and an unwavering course. Mildness and forbearance will strengthen their affection for you, while it will maintain your control over them. As to Ancestors. Mrs. Newrich (patronizingly): Were any of your ancestors men of note, Mr. Cynic? Mr. Cynic: Yes, madam, I should say so. One of them was the most famous Admiral of his day, and commanded the allied naval forces of the world. Mrs. Newrich (with altered tone of deep respect): Is it possible? And what was his name? Mr Cynic: Noah, madam

Beauties of All Races

All get their white teeth in this new-day way

Careful people of some fifty nations now use a new way of teeth cleaning. To millions of women in every clime it is bringing prettier teeth. Leading dentists, all the world over, are advising its adoption. It means better tooth protection. Are you still clinging to old methods, when all about you you can see what this new method does?

You must fight film

Old ways of teeth cleaning proved disappointing. Teeth still discolored, still decayed, as most people know. Tooth troubles constantly increased until very few escaped. Dental science found the reason in a film. In that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it. Then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film. The ordinary tooth paste does not effectively combat it. So the well-brushed teeth of millions were kept clouded more or less by that film. Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. It forms a breeding place for germs, and they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Despite the tooth brush, all those troubles became alarming in extent.

Now they combat it

Millions now combat that film. Dental research found two effective ways. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it. This is done daily and gently, without the use of harmful grit. Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. Now leading dentists everywhere advise them. A new-type tooth paste has been created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. Those two great film combatants are now embodied in it for daily application.

A new dental era

Pepsodent brings other effects now found to be essential. Thus it is bringing to countless homes a new dental era. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which otherwise ferment and form acids. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's neutralizer for the acids which cause decay. The former tooth pastes, which proved so ineffective, brought just opposite effects. It polishes the teeth so film less easily adheres. Thus Pepsodent combines the best that modern science offers to fight enemies of teeth.

Let Children Try It

Do not let your children suffer what you may have suffered from your teeth. Teach them this new-day method. Dentists advise that children use Pepsodent from the time the first tooth appears. Watch the results on their teeth for a week and you'll realize why they need it. Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Then decide what is best for you and yours by what you see and feel. Cut out the coupon so you won't forget.

House Centipedes

Leaflet which is issued by the Bureau of Entomology tells about the appearance and habits of the house centipede or thousand legs, their bite and treatment, and remedies for control. While centipedes live on house flies, roaches and other insects, their poisonous appearance makes them extremely undesirable.

IN his last annual visit to his old home in Alabama, Col. Bozeman Bulger met a husky young negro, whom he remembered as a ragged pickaninny. Having spent more than a year with the A. E. F. overseas, Bulger had a natural interest in military matters. He asked the darkey what service he had seen.

"I didn't git into de army a-tall," said the negro.

"That's surprising," said Bulger. "You're one of the huskiest looking specimens I've seen in a long while. Even if you didn't volunteer I should have thought that the draft would have caught you."

"De draft did ketch me, but dey didn't keep me. De genelman whut 'ramined me he let me go again."

"What reason did he give?"

"Well, suh, after he done look me ovah he sort of laff an' say he reckoned 'twouldn't be no satisfaction to de Germans to shoot me; an' he tole me to grab my hat an' git on out of dere."

"What were his exact words?"

"Well, suh, near ez I kin rekollect, he say dat my feet was so big an' so flat dat even if I did git shot I wouldn't fall ovah."

Open Inquiry Monday.

WIDOW OF RECTOR
WAIVES IMMUNITY

Note to Grand Jury Foreman Declares Willingness
Answer Any Question
Mrs. Gibson Star Witness

By the Associated Press.
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 14.—An attempt to prove that Frances Stevens Hall knew of relations between her husband, Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, and choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Reish Mills, for some time prior to the murder on Sept. 14, will be made Special Deputy Attorney-General Mott before the Somerset County grand jury next week.
This was announced today by special prosecutor during an interview in which he discussed his plan for the presentation of the case to the grand jury, which will begin taking testimony next Monday.
Ray Schneider and Pearl Bahr, who found the bodies on the Phillips farm, will be the first witnesses called.
"Through the testimony of witnesses called on the second day," he said, "I hope to prove that some time prior to the murder Hall had known of the intimate relations between her husband and Mrs. Mills. The presentation of one will be expedited but I do know how long it will take—four or five days."

By Licensed Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The decision to convene the grand jury been made at Somersetville by Timothy N. Pfeiffer, counsel for Mrs. Frances Noel Stevens Hall, widow of the slain clergyman, the only person named by any news as having had a part in slayings, made it known at New Brunswick that his client had patched in her own handwriting request to Alfred E. Gibbs, foreman of the grand jury, that she be permitted to testify before the body, pressing at the same time her waiver to answer all questions under a waiver of immunity.
Mrs. Gibson Star Witness.
The narrative, a copy of which, in Mrs. Hall's handwriting, was forwarded to Attorney Mott, reiterates the woman's declaration of complete innocence.

The Deputy Attorney-General seemed to be so wise affected by judgment of the value of Mrs. Hall as his star witness by affidavit of the negro, Mrs. Ne Russell, whose farm adjoins that of Mrs. Gibson, in which affidavit woman swears that it was impossible for Mrs. Gibson to have taken the mule ride to the Phillips farm between 9:30 and 11 o'clock on the night of Sept. 14, inasmuch as Mrs. Gibson was on the Russell farm during that period. The murder, according to the authorities, occurred at 10:20 o'clock. The time has been fixed by persons who heard shots that hour.

"I don't think much of the story told Mott when asked for his opinion of Mrs. Russell's affidavit," Mrs. Hall's Counsel in Hospital. Investigators, official and unofficial, were excited for a time yesterday when it was discovered that Henry Carpenter, cousin of M. Hall, and a vestryman in the Church of St. John the Evangelist, had been a patient since Sunday evening at the Middlesex General Hospital, New Brunswick. Carpenter's name appeared frequently in accounts of the inquiry and he was in the operation as to the identities of persons to be called as witnesses before the grand jury.

According to Dr. Laurence Runyon of New Brunswick, his brother-in-law, Carpenter was seized the day evening by a recurrence of attack of appendicitis, and Dr. Runyon's advice went to hospital for an operation, which was performed at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

His condition was reported highly favorable last night.
